

Central Broadway Mall—A Definite Step

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Central Broadway mall, just a dream six months ago, took definite shape Tuesday night at a presentation of architect's drawings given by the Central Broadway Businessmen's Association at the Casablanca Restaurant.

The architect, Jerome Kerner of Liberty, outlined plans for $3½ to $4 million project on a seven-acre site between Van Deusen and Van Buren Street and running back to Prospect Street. It will park 428 cars around an enclosed mall housing 20 to 30 shops. Kerner is a partner in the architectural firm of Seller, Nakrosis and Kerner of Liberty and New York City.

Edward Arace, president of the businessmen's association, expressed confidence in the project on a financial basis—"we've got two developers who are interested. We don't see any problems financially"—but said the key to its success will be the cooperation of city officials.

The problem, outlined by Arace, is this. The mall will displace some 70 families located on some 60 parcels of land. It would be impossible (or unprofitable) for a private developer to negotiate the sale of 60 separate pieces of property. The city could do it through its powers of condemnation, declaring the whole seven-acre area a redevelopment area, much like urban renewal but on a much smaller scale.

The city does not have an urban renewal project going in that area but it does have a first cousin to urban renewal, code enforcement under the direction of Frank Cardinale. Cardinale said that the proposal to demolish some 40 buildings and build a shopping plaza might be feasible and that he was working up statistics to present to the federal office of urban development in New York City.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig said he will take those figures to HUD next month in an effort to secure approval of the plan for inclusion in the city's code enforcement program.

Last night's meeting, which featured a cocktail hour with refreshments previous to the presentation of the plans was well attended with about 60 persons including the mayor, Alderman-at-Large T. Robert Gallo and nine of the 13 aldermen.

Both the city's political leaders were there, Edward T. Feeney on the Republican side and Lawrence Woerner on the Democratic side. Both gave their strong support to the project.

Woerner said, "The Kingston Plaza saved uptown. I think this plaza will save midtown. It has my support."

Feeney said, "I think this should be a bi-partisan issue. It is for the good of the city. We should all support it."

The Uptown businessmen support it, according to Clifford V. Bunting, who introduced himself as the uptown group's representative. "We're with you boys all the way," Bunting said.

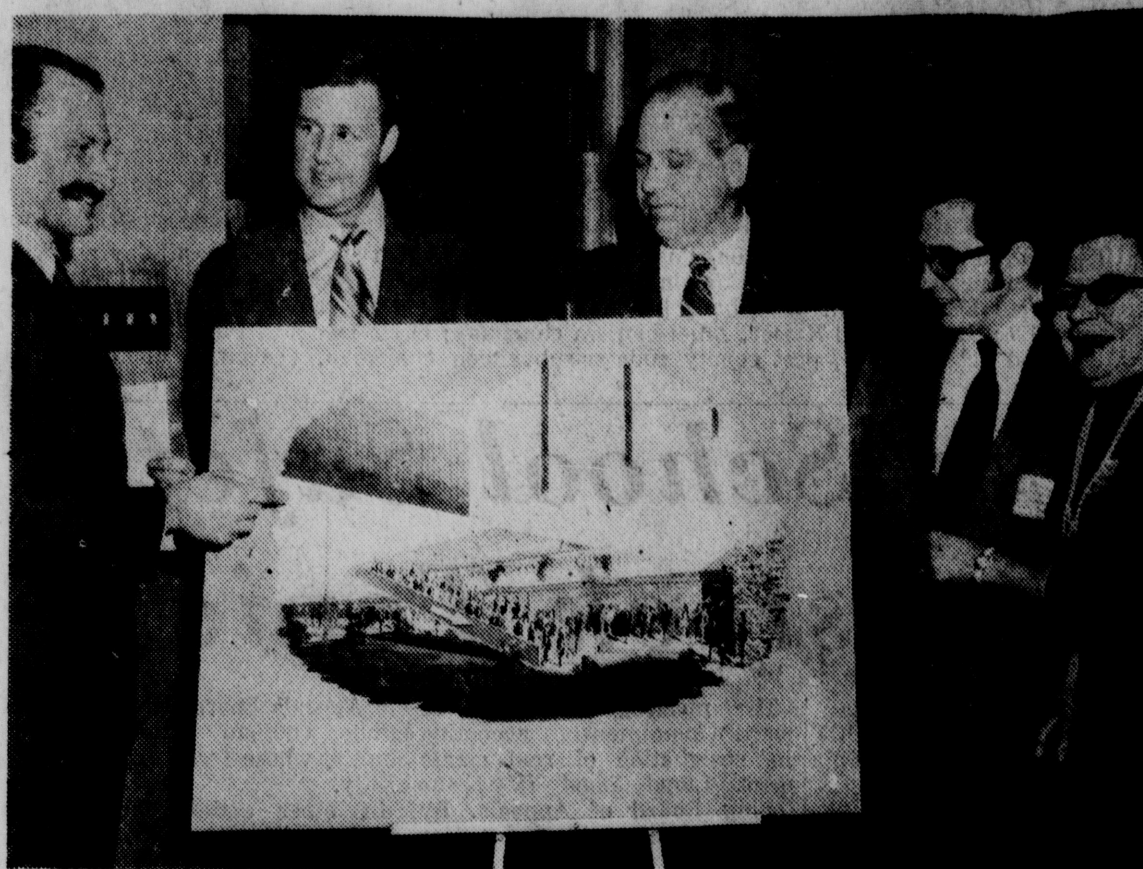

While the general mood was one of optimism and "let's get the show on the road," sentiment (Ted Hudela, a area tailor said "this will make us the Broadway of the Hudson Valley"), there were several serious questions raised.

Perhaps the most serious was "what will happen to the 70 or so families now living in what will be the project area?"

Mayor Koenig said it was possible that the developer could build an apartment house as part of his project to provide new homes for those displaced residents.

The mayor also held out the possibility that displaced residents could be moved into the proposed Urban Development Corporation in Broadway East, the 130-unit complex expected to go into construction this spring.

No one seemed to question the seriousness of the deterioration in midtown Broadway. "Right now, we've got a slum and it's getting worse," Arace said. "Millions of (business) dollars are fleeing the city to the outlying shopping centers. We have to turn it around. We think this plan offers the best possibility."

Fighting Intensifies Near S. Viet Border

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese troops stood off a Communist attack against a base inside Laos today and fighting intensified on the South Vietnamese side of the border where U.S. troops rushed in reinforcements under cover of air strikes.

Military spokesmen said Saigon government troops killed at least eight Communists who attacked a base near Lao Bao in Laos at a cost of 26 wounded.

South Vietnamese spokesmen also reported air strikes had destroyed four more Soviet-made tanks and three anti-aircraft guns in other areas of the Laotian campaign.

Across the border in South Vietnam's far northwest corner, heavy fighting flared in jungles northeast of the U.S. air strip at Khe Sanh and American reinforcements were pushing into the battle area under cover of artillery and jet fighter bomber strikes carried out despite clouds as low as 500 feet.

U.S. officials said the fighting broke out Tuesday night in an area west of "The Rockpile", a stone escarpment near the Laotian border and just south of the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) separating the two Vietnams.

Preliminary reports said at least five GIs had been wounded in the fighting, in which Air Force, Navy and the South Vietnamese campaign based intruders fired two Australian B57 bombers carried out nearly a score of raids today. A U.S. Army Huey helicopter was shot down during the fighting but the crew was rescued.

Military spokesmen also reported American infantrymen in South Vietnam's far northwest corner killed 21 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese over the

The Calley Defense—Overcome With Stress

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—Lt. William L. Calley Jr., his defense contends, was so overcome with the stress of the moment of My Lai that he was like a man who stands transfixed at the sight of a speeding car bearing down on him unable to move to safety.

The defense called two psychiatrists today to state — out of the presence of the jury — that their expert opinion was that Calley suffered diminished mental responsibility so great that he did not have the capacity:

—To premeditate murder. —To kill persons without justification or excuse.

To determine the legality or illegality of orders given by his company commander, Capt. Ernest L. Medina, who allegedly told his men to wipe out everything in the Vietnamese hamlet.

To form the specific intent to kill someone.

The purpose of the hearing was to get the answers of the two doctors to hypothetical questions posed as to the four foregoing points so the judge could rule on government objections to their testimony before the six-officer jury.

Calley, 27, is charged with the premeditated murder of 102 civilians when he led an American infantry platoon on a search-and-destroy sweep of My Lai on March 16, 1968. George W. Latimer, chief defense attorney at Calley's court-martial, Tuesday told Judge Reid W. Kennedy that "the combat stresses and strains of the war and all the emotion impaired Calley's mental processes."

Israel Rejects Proposal To Withdraw From Sinai

By United Press International

Israel rejected today the reported suggestion of U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring that it give up the entire Sinai Peninsula seized from Egypt in the 1967 Middle East War.

Egypt said today it was ready to discuss peace if Israel would abide by the 1967 U.N. Security Council guidelines for a Middle East settlement which the Egyptians interpret as calling for complete Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told the Knesset (parliament) in Jerusalem today that the government would continue its refusal to return to its pre-1967 boundaries set by the 1948 armistice.

"Israel's right to agreed and defensible borders is a central principle," Eban said. "Israel will not return to the armistice lines, which cannot assure Israel against aggression."

He said the final borders were to be decided by negotiation and could not be agreed to in advance.

The Jarring initiative was reported to have been in the form of questions asking Israel if it was prepared to withdraw from the Sinai and asking Egypt if it was ready to make peace with Israel.

Egypt earlier announced its acceptance of the Jarring proposal.

Eban blunted opposition party demands for a debate in the Knesset on Jarring's initiative by announcing that Egypt's reply had not been officially received by Israel and asking that the debate be delayed.

The Israeli newspaper Yedioth Aharonoth said Israel was preparing to discuss withdrawal from Arab territories and was drawing up a map to show how far it was willing to pull back.

Political sources in Tel Aviv said Israel has launched a campaign to counteract the publicity gains it feels Egypt has made in recent Middle East peace moves.

Israel has reserved official comment on a peace initiative by U.N. negotiator Gunnar V. Jarring and on a proposal by Egypt for reopening the Suez Canal.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahran said Egypt sent a two-page memorandum to Jarring declaring its readiness to abide by the 1967

Security Council resolution on the Middle East. Egypt said it was ready to discuss "arrangements for peace" if Israel would make a similar commitment; the newspaper said.

Al Ahran said Israel should declare readiness to withdraw from all occupied Arab territory, readiness to accept a just settlement of the Palestinian problem and a declaration renouncing the use of force for territorial expansion.

Jerusalem mayor Teddy Kollek rejected Tuesday U.S. State Department criticism of Israeli plans to build large housing projects in parts of Jerusalem captured from Jordan in the 1967 war. Kollek said he had some objections to aesthetic aspects of the projects, but that Israel had the right to develop Jerusalem.

Koenig Meets With HUD Officials

Rondout Center...A Bit Closer

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

The Rondout Neighborhood Center moved a step closer to fulfillment Tuesday as the result of a meeting between Mayor Francis R. Koenig and officials of the Department of Housing and Urban Development in New York City.

Koenig said today that prospects look "very good" for eventual construction and completion of the neighborhood facility in downtown Kingston.

March 1 has been set as the tentative target date for advertising of bids for Phase One of the long-standing project.

At yesterday's meeting between Koenig and HUD officials, several minor architectural changes in the structure were recommended. These changes appear to be the only obstacles towards a start on the building sometime this spring.

According to Koenig, the most noteworthy change recommended by the federal housing authorities was the addition of a ramp for handicapped persons leading into the building. The ramp will, in all probability, replace a section of steps at the building's entrance.

Koenig stated that the proposed changes will be forwarded to the architects of the project, Augustus R. Schrowang and Associates, for further study. When the changes are made, they will be sent to HUD officials in New York City for final approval. Plans and drawings for the project were forwarded to HUD on Jan. 18, noted Koenig, and specifications for the project were sent Feb. 9.

Total estimated cost of the project is $265,000. A federal grant of $193,512 has been approved and has, in fact, been held in reserve since 1967. The city must come up with the remaining funds.

In 1967, the Common Council approved a bond resolution for $96,000 to cover construction of both phases of the project. Since only phase one will be started at this stage, Koenig indicated that the Common Council will have to pass another bond issue, presumably for a lesser amount, to replace the earlier one.

Phase One includes construction of senior citizen meeting rooms, youth recreation facilities, a nursery, a kitchen and offices for a doctor and a nurse, at the site to be located on the corner of Broadway and Spring Street.

Phase Two calls for construction of a gymnasium and locker rooms.

Stating that the "cost will go up the longer we wait," Koenig added, "We're ready to roll as soon as they give us the okay."

Sen. Speno Dead at 50

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Sen. Edward J. Speno, a Long Island Republican, died of a heart attack today at St. Peter's Hospital.

The 50-year-old senator—was taken to the hospital from the DeWitt Clinton Hotel where he was staying while in Albany for the state legislative session.

Speno was first elected in 1954 from the fourth district and was serving his 10th consecutive term.

He was chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Transportation and Motor Vehicles and an ex-officio member of all joint legislative committees as chairman of the Republican Conference of the Senate.

As chairman of the legislature's study committee on transportation and motor vehicles he was a staunch advocate of the development of a "safety car."

He sponsored a controversial bill that would authorize state tuition grants to parents who send their children to nonpublic elementary and secondary schools.

That bill is known generally as the Speno-Lerner bill. The main co-sponsor is Assemblyman Alfred D. Lerner.

Lifeline Broadcaster in Kingston

Freedom a Must for 20 Years

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — "It is not synonymous with radicalism to salute the American flag . . . part of the blood of every American is in that emblem."

So said Melvin Munn, Dallas, Tex., radio broadcaster whose Life Line freedom talks are heard on 539 stations in 49 states. He came to Kingston Tuesday to "rap" with Kingston High School seniors, address an assembly at the J. Watson Bailey School, hold a press conference and bring his message to the community at an appearance in the George Washington School at night.

The day's events were sponsored by Kingston Post 150, American Legion.

Interviewed by the press, Munn, referring to the sking to Conservatism throughout the U. S., said the so-called "Silent Majority" is not really so silent because it is "holding the fabric of the country together."

Conservatism is never dramatic, he added, it merely articulates what has always been there. He described today's silent majority as clinging to the principles and convictions of their grandfathers because they feel they have value. Defending democracy as the American people have known it, Munn recalled that the orderly transfer of government every four years continues to work, pointing out that Communist countries do not enjoy free elections.

The American people can live in a free state, even with dissent, he said, without becoming a police state. If America can keep its freedom going for another 20 years, Russia and China, in the interim, will not be able to keep her people isolated from the world much longer. "There is a restlessness in Russia," he suggested.

Asked what he finds most adult Americans are most concerned about today, Munn said unequivocally, "The general economic conditions . . . the spiraling costs."

The youngster, on the other hand, consider peace the biggest of issues, he added.

Queried for his opinion regarding U.S. intervention in Laos, Munn said he felt don't stand up under study. President Nixon is doing what he said he would do. "I don't think it is an extension of the ground force tenure."

Asked about the people's reaction since U.S. involvement with Cambodia, the former Congressional public relations man indicated that some people are "misled by the press . . . that there are far fewer casualties . . . far fewer men on duty. The headlines, of tributed it to a number of incidents including the Kent and Jackson State tragedies and the blowing up of buildings at the University of Wisconsin. "No one grieved for the man who died in that explosion," he injected.

Zena School Safety Woodstock Topic

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK — Highway safety in the Zena school area, with emphasis on posting speed zones and improving general conditions there was one of the main issues discussed at Tuesday night's meeting of the Woodstock Town Board. The topic surfaced in a letter from the Zena Homeowners Association, signed by John Contino, pointing out the need for further safety measures following the recent traffic accident in which a Zena kindergarten youngster was killed.

Supervisor Milton Houst noted that the town had been involved in correspondence and meetings with the State Department of Transportation on the matter several months prior to the accident. The department, he said, has agreed to cooperate with the town on the installation of flashing lights or speed limit signs in the area of the new Zena School.

These would be placed on the approach from the Sawkill direction, at the approach from Woodstock towards the main intersection, and on the Zena Road approach from Route 28.

The option for either lights or signs would remain with the board and the school, with no decision reached as yet. Houst noted that flashing warning lights, estimated at a cost of $1,500 to the town, would operate only when school is in session. Speed limit signs would be in effect 24 hours a day and could be had for a minimal charge. Observing that the speed limit in that area is now 55 miles an hour (far too fast in his opinion), he suggested the signs would be "just as effective" since they would give the town an opportunity to "control" safety regulations, speed and traffic through police agencies.

The speed limit agreed upon between town and state has been set at 25 miles an hour. Houst said the board "had wanted a lower limit," but had "to settle for the best we could get" since the state bases its calculations on national standards, density of area, and other studies.

The board followed through by unanimously approving two "school bus stop zones" resolutions, and another concerning "speed limit reduction." One resolution requested the Ulster County Highway Department "to erect and maintain" appropriate signs showing school bus stop zones, and indicating approach to same in Woodstock as a warning to drivers on county roads in the township.

Further noting that "the posted speed limits are often in excess of State limits," a second and similarly worded resolution requested the New York State Department of Transportation to place and maintain the same type signs on state roads in the township where approaches to school bus stop zones are presently located.

The final resolution requested the county to establish a reduction in the speed limit in the area of the Zena School on the Sawkill and Zena Roads to 25 miles an hour.

Questioned as to why town roads were not covered in the resolutions and why the Woodstock School was not mentioned specifically along with the Zena School, Supervisor Houst said state mandates preclude posting of town roads at anything less than 45 miles per hour. He did agree, however, that the board would pursue the problem further to see if "certain" town roads could be covered by the same rules.

Thor Launched

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI)—A secret satellite employing a Thor-Burner II combination missile was launched Tuesday night from this aerospace center.

Details of the 7:52 p.m. EST launch were not released in accordance with Air Force regulations.

The meeting also saw the board unanimously accepting the resignation of real estate agent Lloyd Lund from the Zoning Board of Appeals. By a vote of 3-2 (with Supervisor Houst and Councilman Arthur MacDaniel dissenting), Mrs. Sandra Day (active in both the Democratic party and the League of Women Voters) was appointed to fill the vacancy created by the Lund resignation. Unanimously approved was the appointment of Robert Cross as chairman of the Appeals Board. He replaces lumber company owner Nelson Shultis, whose term expired recently.

Continue Probe Of Rapp Fire

KINGSTON — Detectives continued investigation today of the $75,000 fire that destroyed the 2-story frame warehouse of the John M. Rapp Van Lines Inc. 57 Broadway.

The fire started from an undetermined cause Monday night and flames swept rapidly through the structure as firefighters from all units in the city fought the blaze for hours before it was brought under control.

Alertness of firemen in slamming shut a fire door leading from the wood frame building structure where furniture belonging to more than 100 customers was stored, was credited in preventing the fire from entering the larger building.

A fire wall between the two warehouses also checked the spread of the flames.

Detective Lieutenant Charles McCullough, who was in charge of police at the scene during the fire that burned for hours, said several persons had been questioned during the investigation, but no arrests had been made.

Records show that the total number of tickets handed out by the same platoon of police for the month of January was 1,010 — for parking violations. A police official noted that parking meters must be used parts of Kingston, 16 additional daily excepting Sunday, and cars were ticketed for not complying with the parking ordinances. Another 16 motorists were summoned for moving violations, making a total for the day — 152 summonses.

The total was exceeded on Jan. 5, when police issued 161 summonses for various violations.

RV Board Approves Two Principalships

STONE RIDGE — Two half-time principalships for the Rosendale and Accord schools were approved Tuesday night by the Rondout Valley Central School Board of Education.

Presently the school has teaching principals in charge. As such, they have been spending most of their time as teachers while holding the responsibility of principals. Under the new system the duties of each post will be on a half-time basis with tenure applying only to the teaching end of the job but not to the principalship.

Probationary appointments of four teachers were also sanctioned.

Parochial Aid—Two-Front Move

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Advocates of expanded state aid to parochial schools moved on two fronts Tuesday to urge the legislature and Governor Rockefeller to support the Speno-Lerner aid bill.

After several hundred demonstrators marched through capitols, the proposal's two main sponsors announced they had amended it to meet Rockefeller's objections. About 200 demonstrators, mostly priests and parochial students from New York City, stood outside Rockefeller's second-floor office for an hour, shouting for the governor to come out and speak to them. Two of the governor's aides finally accepted petitions urging the financial aid to nonpublic schools.

Meanwhile, Sen. Edward J.

Speno, R-East Meadow, and Assemblyman Alfred D. Lerner, R-Queens, said it would be 11 times cheaper to keep parochial schools open than to absorb the students into the public schools.

It would cost $100 million to subsidize the private schools, they said, and $1.1 billion to absorb the students.

The two lawmakers said they had revised their proposal, which would provide another $50 million in aid per year, to meet Rockefeller's objections. The governor said the legislation would mean the death of the public school system because it encouraged parents to put children in private schools. The sponsors said however, they had put in a five year "grandfather clause," to prohibit aid to parents whose students were in a school that had not been in existence more than five years.

"In addition the new Speno-Lerner bill discourages schools from attempting to grow," they said. "The proposal now specifies a school may not grow more than 15 per cent a year to receive aid."

Their bill, sponsored by 35 legislators, is a "realistic alternative to the state assuming the full burden of education the 800,000 young people now in non-public schools," the lawmakers said.

Big Six Mayors in Albany To Push for More Help

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Mayors of the state's 'Big Six' cities characterized Gov. Rockefeller's proposed $8.45 billion budget for 1971-72 today as inadequate in the face of the "worst budgetary crisis in memory" that is threatening the cities.

In remarks prepared for delivery at legislative hearings on the budget, the mayors declared:

"Instead of increasing local assistance programs, the budget per cent surcharge on personal income taxes and other adjustments in the income tax; raising the current 3 per cent sales tax; represents a standstill in most areas. And since our costs are sharply increasing, a budget which only maintains current levels of local assistance represents a step backward."

Today's sessions, focusing on state aid to local governments, were the first of two days of hearings. Similar hearings were being held in New York and Buffalo.

The mayors' statement was parceled out to the six partici-

60,000 Barbers and Pensions—Their Retirement Plan Looks Bleak

WASHINGTON (AP) — The promoter who masterminded loans of millions of Barbers Union pension dollars, some to enterprises controlled by him and a financially plagued DuPont heir, has been indicted along with the union's president on charges of kickback conspiracy.

The pension fund involved in the complex case has ties to one of the biggest personal bankruptcy act cases ever filed, to two other financial scandals and to jailed tax evader Bobby Baker.

And the nearly 60,000 barbers who are members of the pension plan face forecasts that they likely will get little or none of the retirement income they were promised. Both government and private studies say the fund will go broke as presently constituted.

The 36-count indictment was returned Tuesday by a federal grand jury in Chicago and announced by the Justice Department in Washington. It named: —Thomas A. Shaheen Jr., 38, the pension fund's onetime investment consultant who now lives in London, England.

—Joseph De Paola, Indianapolis, president of the Journeymen Barbers, Hairdressers, Cosmetologists and Proprietors International Union of America and chairman of its pension fund.

—Max Block Jr., a New York Attorney who worked with Shaheen.

Columbia Financial Corp. of Chevy Chase, Md., controlled by Shaheen and Block.

The indictment charged all four with conspiring to get kickbacks, fees and commissions from a California land development firm in connection with a loan from the pension fund. It further charged Shaheen, Block and Columbia with conspiring to pay off De Paola in connection with fund loans and charged De Paola with soliciting and receiving $29,000 in fees, kickbacks and commissions.

Shaheen also was charged with getting from the California firm $12,597 in fees and commissions. $25,000 in negotiable notes, two consultant agreements worth $144,000 and 100 acres of land in order to influence his actions as the fund's adviser.

The fund, which once totaled $21 million, made nearly $12 million in mortgage loans during the period Shaheen advised it. Some $7 million of these became delinquent. The fund listed $16 million in assets in its most recent report to the Labor Department.

The breadth of the fund's problems first came to public light last July in a series of Associated Press articles on pension plans.

The Barbers' fund went into business in 1966 and began with conservative investments administered by a bank. Shaheen came onto the scene about a year later and, as its adviser, steered fund money into mortgage loans, some of them to Winthrop Lawrence Corp. or its subsidiaries.

Winthrop Lawrence, named as a co-conspirator in the case, at the time was half-owned by Columbia Financial Corp. and half-owned by Lamont du Pont Copeland Jr., son of the board chairman of the giant DuPont Corp.

Copeland Jr. filed last year for reorganization of his financial affairs under the bankruptcy act, listing debts of about $60 million and assets of less than half that total. Soon after, Winthrop Lawrence also filed for reorganization.

Justice Department sources said that based on assurances from Shaheen's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, that Shaheen would be on hand for trial, no formal extradition proceedings were presently planned.

The two other financial scandals linked to Barbers fund loans involve insurance companies—Prudence Mutual Casualty Co. of Chicago and Community National Life Insurance Co. of Tulsa, Okla. Both firms failed under circumstances that brought investigations.

Jonas, Noted Sculptor, Dies in Area

HUDSON, N.Y. (UPI) — Funeral services will be held Thursday for Louis Paul Jonas, internationally known sculptor whose works included a display of life-size dinosaurs for the last World's Fair in New York City.

Jonas, who lived in the nearby community of Churchtown, died Monday at Columbia Memorial Hospital here. He was 76.

Jonas was commissioned in 1962 by Sinclair Oil Co. to produce nine of the huge prehistoric reptiles for the World's Fair and it took him two years to complete the exhibit.

He also sculpted wild animal exhibits for a number of museums and his miniatures, scaled to 1-10th of natural size, men, the Maharajah of Baroda, movie stars Bing Crosby, Jack Webb and Stewart Granger and other prominent persons.

Born in Budapest, Jonas came to this country in 1909 to work in a taxidermy business with his brothers, John and Coleman, in Denver, Colo.

In 1914, he became assistant to Carl Akeley at the American Museum of Natural History in New York and later was commissioned by the museum to model a group of Indian elephants. He also created the African hall at the Museum of Natural History in Caracas, Venezuela.

The Smithsonian Institute in Washington, the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, the National Museum of Canada, and the Nova Scotia Museum of Science were among institutions that displayed his works.

'TRASH' BABY — This baby boy was found in a trash container in a restroom on a Trans World Airlines jetliner. He was born during the flight and then abandoned but now his mother has identified herself and says she wants him back. The baby weighs 5 pounds, 10 1/2 ounces. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Phone Co. Seeks $391 Million Hike

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The New York Telephone Co. petitioned the Public Service Commission Tuesday for a two-stage rate increase totaling $391 million a year in gross revenue.

The company said the increase was needed to sustain service programs that will cost about $10 billion in the 1970s.

If approved, the increase would provide the utility with approximately $190.8 million annually, after taxes.

New York Telephone serves more than 6 million subscribers. The company asked that $284 million of the sum be applied as a temporary rate increase and PSC hearings on this be held promptly. The request would raise virtually all intrastate calls by 20.7 per cent, except coin telephone calls, and would be subject to refunds pending final determination of the full case.

The total request would increase rates an additional 8.4 per cent to 29.1 per cent and also would include hikes in coin toll calls and other services. The basic 10-cent local coin telephone charge would not be affected.

County Laundry Bill, Growing Pains Savago's Topics

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — A long-rang plan to cut county laundry costs for servicing the infirmary and the jail is in the offing, according to Peter J. Savago, chairman of the Ulster County Legislature.

In an address before the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, at a Tuesday morning breakfast meeting in the Gov. Clinton Hotel, Savago said that there are plans to construct a $168,000 laundry facility on the site of the new infirmary and jail on Golden Hill.

Explaining that the current cost of laundry is about $50,000 annually, Savago said that the laundry facility would prove economically advantageous water, solid waste and sewage especially if the facility were studies. Telling of the recently created Ulster County Drug Commission, Savago said it would whom go out to work throughout the county during the day, he explained, asking why not let the inmates wash clothes and linens? Saying the equipment would be simple to operate, Savago felt it would pose no problem to those handling the laundry. If such a plan is not feasible, he added, then it would still be more economical to hire a couple of persons to run the operation, than to continue to have it done commercially. Asked what are the biggest problems facing the county in the next five years, Savago emphasized the drug and county office building space problem and the implementation of the Explaining that a seventh records at the old Flatbush floor could be added atop the Avenue Armory. The county also authorized a study last year which was that he favored adjacent construction instead because it would afford more room and made public. It too, indicates that the county has outgrown its present facility. He suggested that valuts for storage facilities be built under the present parking lot on the east side of the building adding to the county is especially hard that storage as well as the increased need for office space is a problem. At present the county is renting space for storage of records at New York Un-Flatbush Avenue Armory. Facilities in a question and Rosendale, and is storing other period, a number of persons inquired concerning what would become of the present jail once the new one was constructed. Savago was asked if the old jail-court house complex could be converted to space for court related offices now in existence at the County Office Building? Savago said that renovation of the old jail would prove too costly and he felt that too much money had already been put into the ancient structure. We have problems with that building now, he added, telling of a failing ceiling in one of the courtrooms during the past year and of not having an office for Ulster County's first fulltime district attorney this year. He also told of the raising of tax exemptions for the elderly, the improvement of the Perrines Bridge site which attracts between 200 and 300 visitors a week and the distribution of 125,000 publicity brochures with the assistance of the Chamber. Chamber President Clifford A. Henze indicated that the organization and its members stand willing to continue to aid the local government in a variety of ways. Savago pointed out that Chamber member George Schneider, in serving as chairman of the recently created advisory parking authority, "had done a bang-up job."

Name Reardon Principal Of Washington School

KINGSTON — Transfer of William J. Reardon from the principalship of the Brigham School and School 8 to the same post at the George Washington School, effective July 1, has been approved by the Board of Education of the Kingston City Schools.

The transfer will fill a vacancy to be made by the retirement of A. J. Boyd, incumbent principal of the school on Wall Street.

In other Board business, Mrs. Anne Whalen of 250 West Chestnut Street and Mrs. Frances E. Bence, of 105 Maiden Lane, have been appointed as registrars for the registration of voters on the Kingston Consolidated School District for the annual election to be held, Tuesday, May 4.

The Board of Registration will meet at the tax office in the George Washington School, 67 Wall Street, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. (EST) on April 16 for the purpose of preparing a school district register for the election. Polls on election day will be open from 12 noon to 8 p.m. (EST). Persons who must register for the election are those who did not register under personal registration on or before Oct. 6, 1970, and have not voted at an intervening election. No person shall be entitled to vote at the annual election, whose name does not appear upon the registers of the school district. The Board also has approved the appointments of Mrs. Holly Z. Bruce as a language teacher (German) at a junior high school, and Mrs. Elsie Kemble as a science teacher on the junior high school level. Salary increases have been approved for six teachers who completed graduate work. They are Remedios C. Friedlander, Wayne N. Harris, Sharon Holmquist, Carolyn R. Morse, Vincent Van Bramer and John Zambito. Resignations submitted by Cheryl Bigelow, Annette M. Hinners and Deidre K. Price, have been accepted. A maternity leave has been approved for Mary Ann Avallone. A bid for a 1971 4-wheel drive truck complete with plow, has been awarded to James J. Dargan Inc., the lowest responsible bidder who submitted a figure of $3,645. Bids had been solicited from six firms, and two bids were received.

Ellenville Town Hall Renovation Set

ELLENVILLE — An architect, Augustus R. Schrowang of Kingston, has been engaged by the Wawarsing Town Board for the complete renovation of the town hall, according to Frank Harkin, town supervisor.

"I understand he did the work on the lower floor of the town hall, and should be familiar with the problems involved", said Harkin.

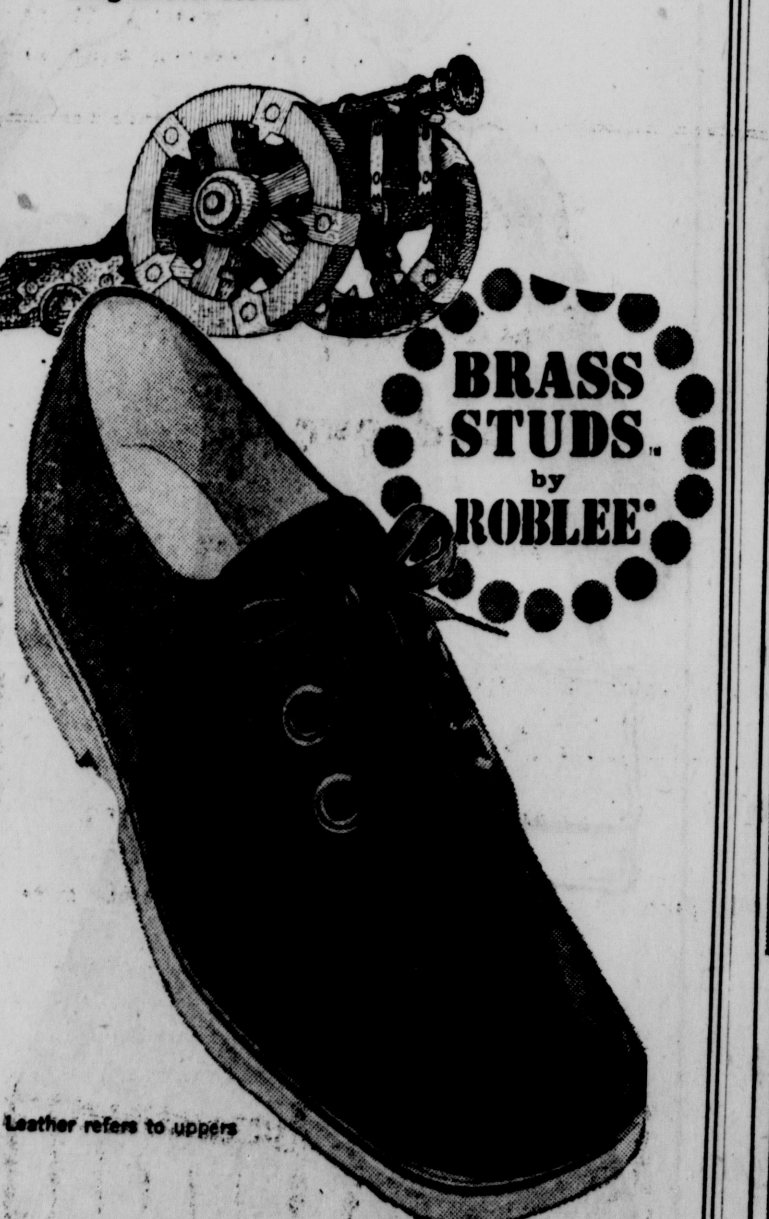

The renovation of the upper floor will both give the town some very much needed office space, and bring the building in line with fire regulations, according to Harkin.

The cost will be about $40,000 to $50,000, with some of the work to be put out on bid.

Harkin believed it very important to get the work done at this time rather than wait until spring, as the costs would be higher in the spring and some bidding contractors might be inclined to give lower bids during the normally slow winter season.

Two Testimonials Planned for Retired BCI Official Edward Shannon

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON—Edward P. Shannon, retired State Police senior Bureau of Criminal Investigation officer, will be honored Thursday, March 4, at a testimonial dinner to be held at the Nevele Country Club, Route 209 in Ellenville.

Shannon, who had been associated with the State Police more than 23 years, also will be honored by Kingston lodge 970, Loyal Order of Moose, as the recipient of the Annual Citizen's Award. The Board of Officers of the lodge recently unanimously chose the retired police officer for the 1971 award.

The presentation will be made at a dinner dance at the Moose Hall, according to Albert E. Elsele, chairman of civic affairs, and Harry E. Cole, dinner chairman. The date of the event will be announced.

Reservations for the testimonial dinner at the Nevele may be made by contacting Senior BCI Investigators Michael Lisman or Charles Teelon, who are stationed at the Kingston Zone Headquarters of State Police on Route 9W, Lake Katrine.

Committee members report a cocktail hour from 7 to 7:30 p.m. will precede the dinner which will be followed by dancing.

Several high State Police officers, public officials and other police department representatives will be in attendance at the dinner to honor Shannon.

After his retirement on Dec. 30, 1970, Shannon assumed his new duties as director of security at the State University College at New Paltz.

Commenting on Shannon's retirement, State Police Superintendent William E. Kirwan said:

"With his departure from the State Police, Senior Investigator Shannon leaves behind a record of 23 years of faithful and exceptional service. His retirement is well earned. Still it is a matter of regret for his competency as an investigator is of a kind not easily replaced. I join his many friends in

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 17, 1971

Virtual War End May 1

After May 1, United States forces in Vietnam will be employed outside the combat area, Secretary of State William P. Rogers told a State Department news conference last week, a prediction that was little noted or commented upon.

While he hedged, "I don't want to say that they will be totally out of the combat area, but for all major combat assignments they will be out," it was the first outright high level prediction that the war will be virtually at an end for American combat troops May 1.

This optimistic assessment of American effort in the war in Vietnam was welcome, in view of the activities of South Vietnamese forces. It was made as South Vietnamese troops were inside Laos and Senate doves were fearful that the United States was participating in the incursion. It was also made against the background of South Vietnamese Vice President Cao Ky's suggestion of a strike across the demilitarized zone, hopefully with American air support. Rogers denied both.

Heretofore, all that had been announced for May 1 was that by that time, another 50,000 American troops would be withdrawn. Rogers' statement that the remaining force would also be employed outside the combat area indicates that unless the enemy carries the fighting to our troops, they will be free of the fighting after May 1. That is a great step forward.

The next pull-back envisages the return of another 100,000 men. The phased withdrawal is proceeding ahead of plan. If the South Vietnamese gamble in Laos is successful, they will prove that they can be safely left to finish the war, and that American withdrawal can be completed safely. That's the best news yet from the fighting front.

Urban America

The urbanization of America proceeds relentlessly. The 1970 Census shows that 149.3 million, or 73.5 per cent of all Americans, live in urban areas. That is a growth from the 69.9 per cent that had settled in cities in 1930, when the flight from the farm gathered force.

Yet urbanization in this country does not mean the congestion has reached unbearable proportions. There are vast open areas in California, the nation's most urbanized state, with 90 per cent of its people living in cities and towns. If that is a model of American saturation, we are far from being jamfull. There is plenty of room for the doubling and trebling of the population that some prophets of doom think will crush us.

California's urbanization also puts a dent in the claim that to fight to restore the environment, we must attain zero population growth—an average of 2.11 children for each family as against today's 2.5 children rate. This argument is demolished by Dr. Henry Miller, of the Census Bureau, who says zero population growth would make only a dent in the environmental crisis. He holds that America's growth in affluence, not in population, threatens the environment. It is not more people, but more well-off people, who demand the goods and services that are responsible for the pollution, garbage and depletion of our basic resources.

Vermont is the most rural state in America, with nearly 68 per cent of its population, or two in three, living in places under 2,500 in open country. It has its attractions, as do most of the states in the union. But we must not confuse population with pollution. They are contributory, but not necessarily casual.

8-Cent Letter Postage

Postal rates aimed at putting the postal system on a sound financial basis for the first time have been announced. They spell bad news for home mailers as well as for commercial users of the mail. Altogether, the proposed rates would cost mailers $1.4 billion for fiscal 1972. The first increase would probably be effective in May.

The proposed schedule would raise the cost of mailing a first class letter from 6 to 8 cents, air mail from 10 to 11 cents, post cards from 5 to 7 cents, third class or so-called "junk mail" from a minimum of 3.8 cents to 5 cents apiece and second class for newspapers and magazines 142 per cent, to 3 to 4 cents a copy. Parcel post mailing would not be affected, but special delivery would increase from 45 to 60 cents. Some of the increases would become effective over a five-year period.

A quick analysis of the schedule indicates that mail delivery of newspapers and magazines will necessitate higher charges by as much as five cents a copy, that junk mail may dry up in time, and that air and special delivery mail will be on an even more selective basis. Taking the postal service out of politics is going to cost a good deal, but the public will stand a lot if postal service is improved. If not, God help the new U.S. Postal Service and the commission that will run it.

The Maryland Legislature, which liberalized its law on possession of marijuana, now has a bill that would eliminate jail sentences for persons convicted of possession of the drug. They would be fined $250 for first offense, $500 for the second offense and $1,000 for all subsequent convictions. A habitual user would have to be very well heeled or elude detection to keep up the habit.

"Patience, My Boy, I'll Think of Something."

David Lawrence Says Prayer in Public Schools Ruling Should Be Clarified

WASHINGTON — In these days of lowered moral standards, one wonders whether millions of the nation's youth might have benefited in their earlier years by constant reminders of spiritual principles. Prayer in the public schools, however, has been largely abandoned due to a seeming prohibition imposed by the Supreme Court of the United States.

But all the court has done is to declare that no division of government shall "prescribe" a prayer or require an activity involving prayer in public schools. A movement to assure the right of voluntary prayer has been instituted in various parts of the land. Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the Republican leader of the Senate, has just introduced a constitutional amendment covering the subject. It has the following provision: "Nothing contained in this Constitution shall abridge the right of persons lawfully assembled, in any public school or other public building which is supported in whole or in part through the expenditure of public funds, to participate voluntarily in nondenominational prayer or meditation."

The Senator points out that both Houses of Congress open their daily sessions with prayers. Yet when parents ask that their children be permitted to use these prayers in their schools before starting the day's classes, this appears to be forbidden.

The wide misunderstanding today is due, of course, to the failure of the Supreme Court of the United States to clarify some of its decisions. It ruled against a situation in which school authorities "prescribe" a prayer or state law sets up a religious exercise. But does this mean that a group of students cannot request a recess period for the saying of a prayer, provided it is of a non-denominational character? There have been cases filed since in which the voluntary nature of the prayers by students has been emphasized, but the legal questions involved have not been settled.

The simplest solution would be for the school systems to allow a brief recess each day for prayer, the conduct of which would be up to the assembled students who would select their own governing committee to make arrangements for the day-by-day program. This would give a large number of students a chance to take part in prayer or to join with their fellow students in a period of meditation. It certainly would have a stimulating effect and could inspire them to go to regular church services. Their interest could be awakened in the basic tenets of morality which have been a guide to mankind for many centuries.

Senator Scott says that he drafted his resolution to allow not only voluntary prayer but meditation which "permits the greatest possible flexibility for a divergence of religious belief." He adds that individual or group prayer or meditation on a voluntary basis "need not be formalized or institutionalized, but at the same time, such activities should not be penalized."

Twenty-nine Senators — from both parties — have joined with Senator Scott in sponsoring the resolution, and there are indications that the measure has wide support in the House of Representatives.

What has been difficult for the average observer to understand is why both houses of Congress can open their session with prayers and why this also can be done at many a public function, while schools are not permitted to do so. But the answer made to this argument is that the saying of prayers at government ceremonies have always been voluntary. The objection is to the writing out of a prayer by the Board of Regents of the State of New York, for instance, and ordering it to be used in all the public schools. This now has been met by an almost nationwide sentiment for voluntary prayers which would be chosen by students from published prayers or be composed by themselves.

The early years of life are impressionable. Sometimes the individual does not think of what is right or wrong. This correspondent attended a high school in which there was a large study room for seniors. The blackboard was nearly 75 feet wide, and there wasn't a single thing on it except three words written by one of our teachers: "Is it right?" A different group of students entered the room every hour. It was a moral guide for years to come. It reminded everybody that there is a conscience inside of us, and it was not a "prescribed" prayer.

GABBING ON THE GOLF COURSE

Men gossip too. It goes like this...

We were playing the Treasure Cay course on Great Abaco. This is a five-year-old plush carpet with emerald greens. Tony Hopkins, the British professional, told a Bahamian caddy not to forget to bring some cold drinks when we reached the fourth tee.

The caddy frowned. "Well, sir," he said, manfully, "I have a date this afternoon with a pretty girl. The way I see it, sir, if I make out poorly, I'll bring the drinks to the fourth tee. If I make out good, I'll bring them to the fifth."

The players became silly. The conversation became ribald. Hopkins hit a long tee shot with his belly, and watched it fade off into the jungle. Jack Wood, a Londoner with an iron mane, couldn't hit a basketball with a teaspoon. However, he is also the golf writer for Britain's News of the World, so his 60-yard dribbler was accorded respect.

Wood was followed by Commander Frank Robson. Her Majesty's Royal Navy Retired. He is a tall slender man with a sly eye for everyone. He hit a rabbit. Funnier, he said, than the time a destroyer on night maneuvers rammed a cruiser. The cruiser captain blinked: "What do you plan to do next?" The destroyer skipper blinked: "Buy a farm."

It was my turn. There are herds of wild horses on Treasure Cay and one is wearing my golf ball in his ear. Everybody was talking about the caddy and his afternoon date. Gene Kroll, official umpire at this match, turned his mind off women and said that, since he landed on the island, he hadn't seen a TV set, a radio set, or a newspaper.

This is the mood of Treasure Cay, an old pirate cove about 200 miles east of Palm Beach, Fla. Abaco is about 140 miles long and has four policemen and a chief. The way I sail the Kellyo, it's a two-day voyage. On a Mackey plane, it's one hour and much cheaper.

Mr. Wood, the English writer, suggested to Mr. Hopkins, the pro, that they fly over to Hialeah racetrack in the morning. "We can impress the bloody hell out of everybody if I go as Lord Chesington-Chesington Kent, and you go as my valet." The young pro was hurt.

"I won't play your valet," he said, whacking a long hit onto the green, "because I dress better than you. I put on a new suit everyday. You've been here two weeks and you jolly well wear that one suit." "Yes," said the writer, dropping a seven iron into a trap, "but mine fits."

"Go as his aide-de-camp," said Kroll. The commander said it reminded him of the time the American heavy cruiser Wichita pulled into Scapa Flow and signaled the British Home Fleet: "How's the second biggest Navy in the world?" And the scruffy British blinkered back: "Fine. How's the second best?"

Mr. Wood has written a book for Tony Jacklin, American and British Open Champion. I asked him if it was any good. "Read it," he sneered. "You'd swear he wrote it." The commander asked the pro why he refused to play Mr. Wood's valet, at Hialeah. "Oh," said Hopkins, "I thought he said 'valet.'" The caddy did not return with the drinks. The players said it was disgraceful. You know, the drinks. They hoped she was married and her husband had a gun. Everybody hoped the boy died of anything except overexposure.

The match was all even going into the 17th, and, as we were playing for a few bob apiece, our illustrious umpire determined to throw the match to the team of Commander Robson and Bishop because there was an American on the team. Hopkins and Woods are pink-cheeked beefeaters and hail-to-the-queen and all that sort of jazz.

So when Hopkins dropped a ball two feet from the pin, Mr. Kroll said: "Putt." The pro missed. My ball was seven feet away. Kroll said: "That putt is good," and kicked it away. After the match, the men stood in the country club talking about all the delicious sins. Hopkins said he'd go to Hialeah as Lord Chesington-Chesington Kent's valet, but he still thought that Wood could ruin a suit of clothes by merely putting it on.

Robson suggested that Hopkins fire the caddy. "No," said Hopkins, "we'll jolly well never find out what happened." All of us remained on Treasure Cay an extra day to get the scoop. My lips are sealed.

That's what men gossip about...

Jack Anderson Says Nadar, Banzhaf Demand Colas Carry Caffeine Warnings

WASHINGTON — The fearsome twosome of the American marketplace — Nader's Raiders and Prof. John Banzhaf's law class — have teamed up against Cokes, Pepsis and other colas.

The two consumer crusaders will demand that the Food and Drug Administration take legal action to make the cola companies carry warnings about the possible dangers of caffeine.

In limited quantities, caffeine may not do great harm to healthy adults, but it may be dangerous for heart patients. And two or three colas in a 40-pound youngster may be as over-stimulating as eight cups of coffee in some adults.

James Turner of the Ralph Nader center and a group of George Washington University law students under Prof. Banzhaf will petition Food and Drug. They will demand not only that caffeine warnings be issued but also that cola ingredients be listed. They will insist on warnings, too, about the high cholesterol content of mayonnaise.

The food and cola companies have persistently denied that their products are dangerous.

Footnote: The Nader and Banzhaf groups have worked independently of each other in the past. Turner is author of "The Chemical Feast," an expose of how American food is adulterated. The George Washington students have adopted the name LABEL, an acronym for "Law Students Association for Buyers' Education in Labeling." Their controversial professor, John Banzhaf, recently was denied tenure by a conservative group of George Washington law professors. Following student appeals, the professors have agreed to reconsider their decision on March 5.

SSHH! It's Secret

The Army is about to classify a batch of military manuals which can be purchased by any citizen, friend or foe, from a mail-order house in Oregon.

Already, the bumbling brass has solemnly put the "classified" stamp on Field Manual 5-31, entitled "Boobytraps," which is available at $3.50 a copy from Normount Technical Publication, Forest Grove, Ore.

A military spokesman explained that the classification of the other manuals, dealing with such subjects as explosives and guerrilla warfare, was being considered as a means of keeping the information out of the hands of do-it-yourself revolutionaries.

Although the spokesman said none of the manuals and pamphlets had yet been stamped secret, we learned that the decision to do so was imminent.

About 20 documents, which might be too instructive, are expected to be put on the secret list. Among them: "Explosives and Demolitions," "Grenades and Pyrotechnics," "Military Explosives," "Guerrilla Warfare and Special Forces Operations" and "Combat Intelligence." All are available from Normount.

Footnote: The sudden sensitivity over certain military manuals has already proved a nuisance to the sheriff of Lorain County, Ohio, who wanted the "boobytraps" manual for his bomb expert. Sheriff Vernon Smith wrote to the Ohio adjutant general's office for a copy, but was told it wasn't available even to local law enforcement agencies. He appealed to the Pentagon, but again his request was refused. Finally, he came across the book in the Normount Catalogue and sent off his $3.50. He now has a copy.

Muskie and McGovern

Costliest Political Struggle

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Senators Edmund Muskie of Maine and George McGovern of South Dakota probably will meet eight or more times in 1972 Democratic presidential primaries.

Right now, with a number of state laws altered since 1968, some 19 states and the District of Columbia are scheduled to hold presidential primaries. Newcomers to the roster are Rhode Island, Maryland and New Mexico. A few others, most particularly North Carolina and Arkansas, may yet be added.

Once Muskie joins McGovern as a declared candidate, they are destined automatically for confrontation in four states with established all-candidate contests — Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Oregon. In these, the secretary of state, a commission or a committee certifies to the ballot the declared candidates, plus others judged to be contenders by their activity and their national attention.

The New Mexico primary is intended to have the same characteristics, except that any candidate may avoid it by failing to post a $500 filing fee. In the other four his only way to stay out is to assert in an affidavit that he is not in fact a presidential bidder.

McGovern publicly has indicated he almost certainly will also enter presidential preference tests in California and New Hampshire, and Muskie's entry in these is widely expected.

Then there is New York, where both men inevitably will be battling for perhaps 300 delegates, even though their own names will not be on the ballot.

McGovern suggests he may file in potent Illinois, whose primary has a presidential preference test which does not bind the chosen delegates to vote for the winner. Muskie's Illinois plans are undetermined.

Of the remaining 10 states on the list, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, Indiana, West Virginia, Maryland, New Jersey and Florida have preference tests. There could be additional Muskie-McGovern encounters in some of these.

With the enlarged primary calendar stretching in 1972 from mid-March to mid-June, the Democratic struggle for the nomination could be the most strenuous and is sure to be the costliest in political history. It is estimated that any candidate who goes this full route probably will have to spend something like $10 million. (In 1964, the cost of a nomination fight was about half that figure.)

One experienced New York Democrat guesses that foraging for his state's delegates could cost $4 million. For the California primary a candidate's cost next year can hardly be less than $3 million. So $10 million may be a national conservative for a national campaign.

Beneath cost estimates and primary schedules, there is an acute irony for the Democrats everywhere. Politicians everywhere have been dismayed at the ballooning expense of campaigning. Yet it is clear that in 1972, the race will be to the financially swift.

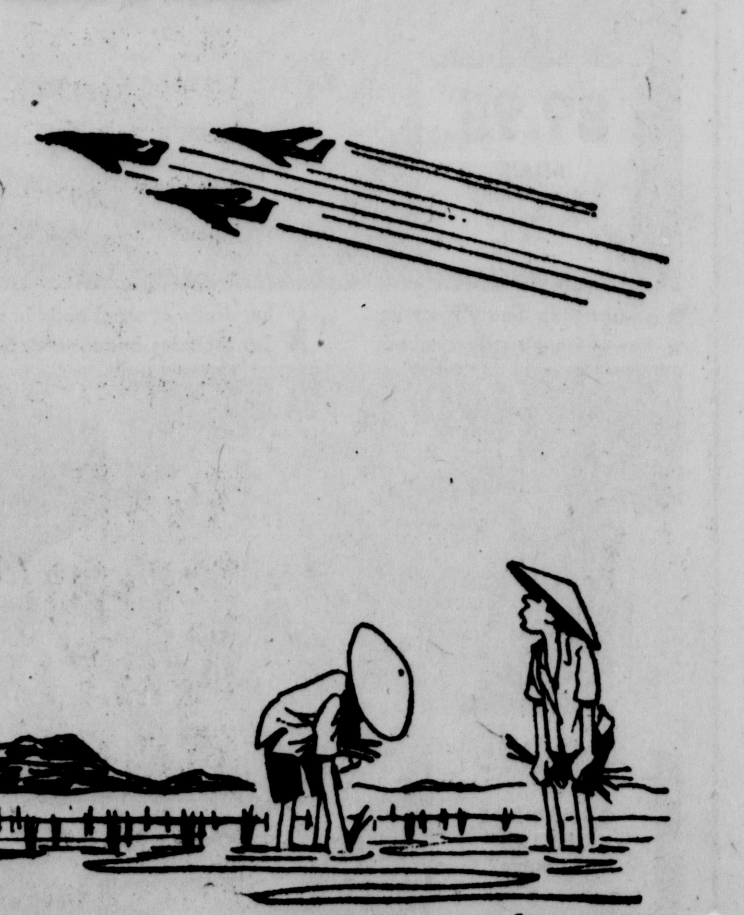

McGovern, for instance, wants to put on a maximum effort at the finish, when the California, Illinois and New York primaries are clustered with a total prize upwards of 750 delegates — roughly half of what will be needed for nomination. He acknowledges, however, that he will have trouble getting the money for this final assault if he has not done well in the earlier, less fruitful primary tests.

The Democrats are putting themselves through the anguish of reform to open up their delegate selection and convention procedures. A chief objective is to widen popular participation in the process. One consequence of this undertaking has been the small rash of additional primaries, whose total may still grow. And flowing from this growth will be the inescapable spiraling of costs, with the likely effect of limiting all-out competition to contenders with heavy resources.

Heightening the problem is a party reform commission decision, still tentative but unlikely to be materially altered, to have 3,000 delegates at the next convention. Corraling delegates in the huge herds indicated for the big states (New York 302, California 294, Pennsylvania 197, Illinois 182) is bound to strain even the best-heeled candidate.

The June Primary
 Editor, The Freeman

The Republican leadership, including Senate Majority Leader Earl W. Bridges of Niagara Falls and Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea Jr. of Montauk, have proposed that the scheduled June Primary be postponed until September ostensibly because of delays in reapportionment and in an effort to shorten the length of election campaigns. The delays in reapportionment are a result of the fact that complete 1970 census data needed to reapportion the local districts will not be available for several months. If the Primary is postponed it will affect contests for many local offices, such as those for County Legislatures.

In a recent statement to the Freeman, the Ulster County Republican Chairman said that he personally favors the later Primary because "it would shorten campaign time, would be financially easier on candidates and would allow more time for parties to pick qualified candidates."

There can be little doubt about the first reason given. True, the later Primary would make for a shorter campaign.

But shorter campaigns benefit no one but the incumbents, since there is that much less time for the challengers to make themselves known to the public. Similarly, regular party candidates have the advantage over insurgents. The cost of a campaign is more closely related to a whole series of other variables than it is to the date of the Primary. And even so, that is really beside the point of a political campaign, which is to expose the candidate to as much scrutiny and criticism as possible before he assumes the power that goes with public office. The third reason has even less validity. If political parties were unable to find qualified candidates in the two or four years between elections, they certainly would not be able to do so in just three months.

In so far as the reapportionment excuse is concerned, it has been effectively demonstrated by such non-partisan groups as the League of Women Voters and the Citizens Union that the redistricting lines could not be drawn in time for a September Primary any more than they could for a June Primary. In addition, there is the added danger that voters still on vacation in early September will not be able to vote in a late Primary or perhaps not have the opportunity to familiarize themselves with the issues of the candidates.

Finally, if the Primary is held in September, there just may not be enough time for election officials to prepare absentee and military ballots and distribute them in time for the November election. Military personnel and vacationers may therefore be denied their vote.

If you believe that it is essential for voters to retain control of their political parties, then I urge you to write to your elected representatives in Albany and express your support for the June Primary.

Yours truly,
MAURICE D. HINCHEY JR.

Stamps for Viet Orphans
 Editor, The Freeman:

I hope you will not mind an American stationed here in South Vietnam writing to The Daily Freeman for help. Please let me explain. Sir, I have been here all over Vietnam for over five years now. I have much spare time at night and on weekends which I devote to my two hobbies. Writing to pen friends and stamp collecting. Each Sunday I and other Americans off duty spend our time at a local Vietnamese orphanage here near Saigon, each person helps the orphanage in his own way. In my case, I teach an English class to the little orphans in the morning. In the afternoon, I devote to 26 little orphans whose hobby is also stamp collecting. I give all my duplicate or extra stamps to the kids which I have accumulated during the week from various pen friends in many countries. I just cannot seem to get enough stamps to help the children's supplies, so that brings me to the reasons for my letter to you.

Sir, could my requests possibly be made known to the readers of The Daily Freeman? I would like to ask your readers if they wouldn't mind cutting or tearing off the corners of envelopes with the stamps on them that they may have laying around or intend to throw away? (The children can soak the stamps off the paper). Any stamps of any kind regardless of how common, U.S. or foreign, would be of use to these kids because they exchange stamps with children of other orphanages, schools, etc.

Sir, we shall be ever grateful for your kind help. Respectfully and with all best wishes,

Complaint About Ads
 Editor, The Freeman:

Some of the advertising on television and radio is an insult to the intelligence of the American people because it's inflammatory.

For example, the commercials on laundry detergents — there are dozens — which in reality are all the same, but certain brand names offer something new as to comparison tests which may not actually be authentic.

Therefore, as a consumer buying staple products I feel there is a legitimate complaint.

Ladies, is your wash really whiter than it was ten years ago? If so, how do you know whether it's the improved machines or the new improved detergents?

The advertisers don't want you to find out, and furthermore, the higher prices you pay for the improved product is what you are paying for the advertising.

Therefore, have you wondered if the extra money you paid for the improved detergent is for research or advertising?

The question arises in my mind — are the manufacturers more interested in selling the product or the advertisement?

My philosophy of the matter is no matter how unsatisfactory any product may be — clever advertising will produce a market for it.

A Senate subcommittee recently exposed the phony ads of dry breakfast cereals high nutritional content which has been going on for years.

Therefore, it's safe to assume that a product is not measured in terms of actual quality, but in the cleverness and misleading of the ad.

It's time for public opinion to end these practices whether it's soap, cereal or anything else.

Write your Congressman, Better Business Bureau or even the advertisers, they will welcome your letters.

Sincerely yours,
EDWIN J. HIGBY

Our Country's Flag
 Editor, The Freeman,

I am writing in reply to the letter written by Mr. John K. Waples and printed in your newspaper on February 8.

Mr. Waples first seemed to be protesting the use of the American flag as a theme for artistic expression. However, the use of our country's flag for this purpose need not be done in a derogatory manner. I am afraid that if this attitude persists, all political cartoons will be called subversive in the future.

The shirt worn by Abbe Hoffman was also mentioned. As Mr. Hoffman has stated, American Flag shirts have also been worn by Dale Evans, Roy Rogers and Ricky Nelson and there have been no protests about it. Certainly, if it is wrong for one, it is wrong for all.

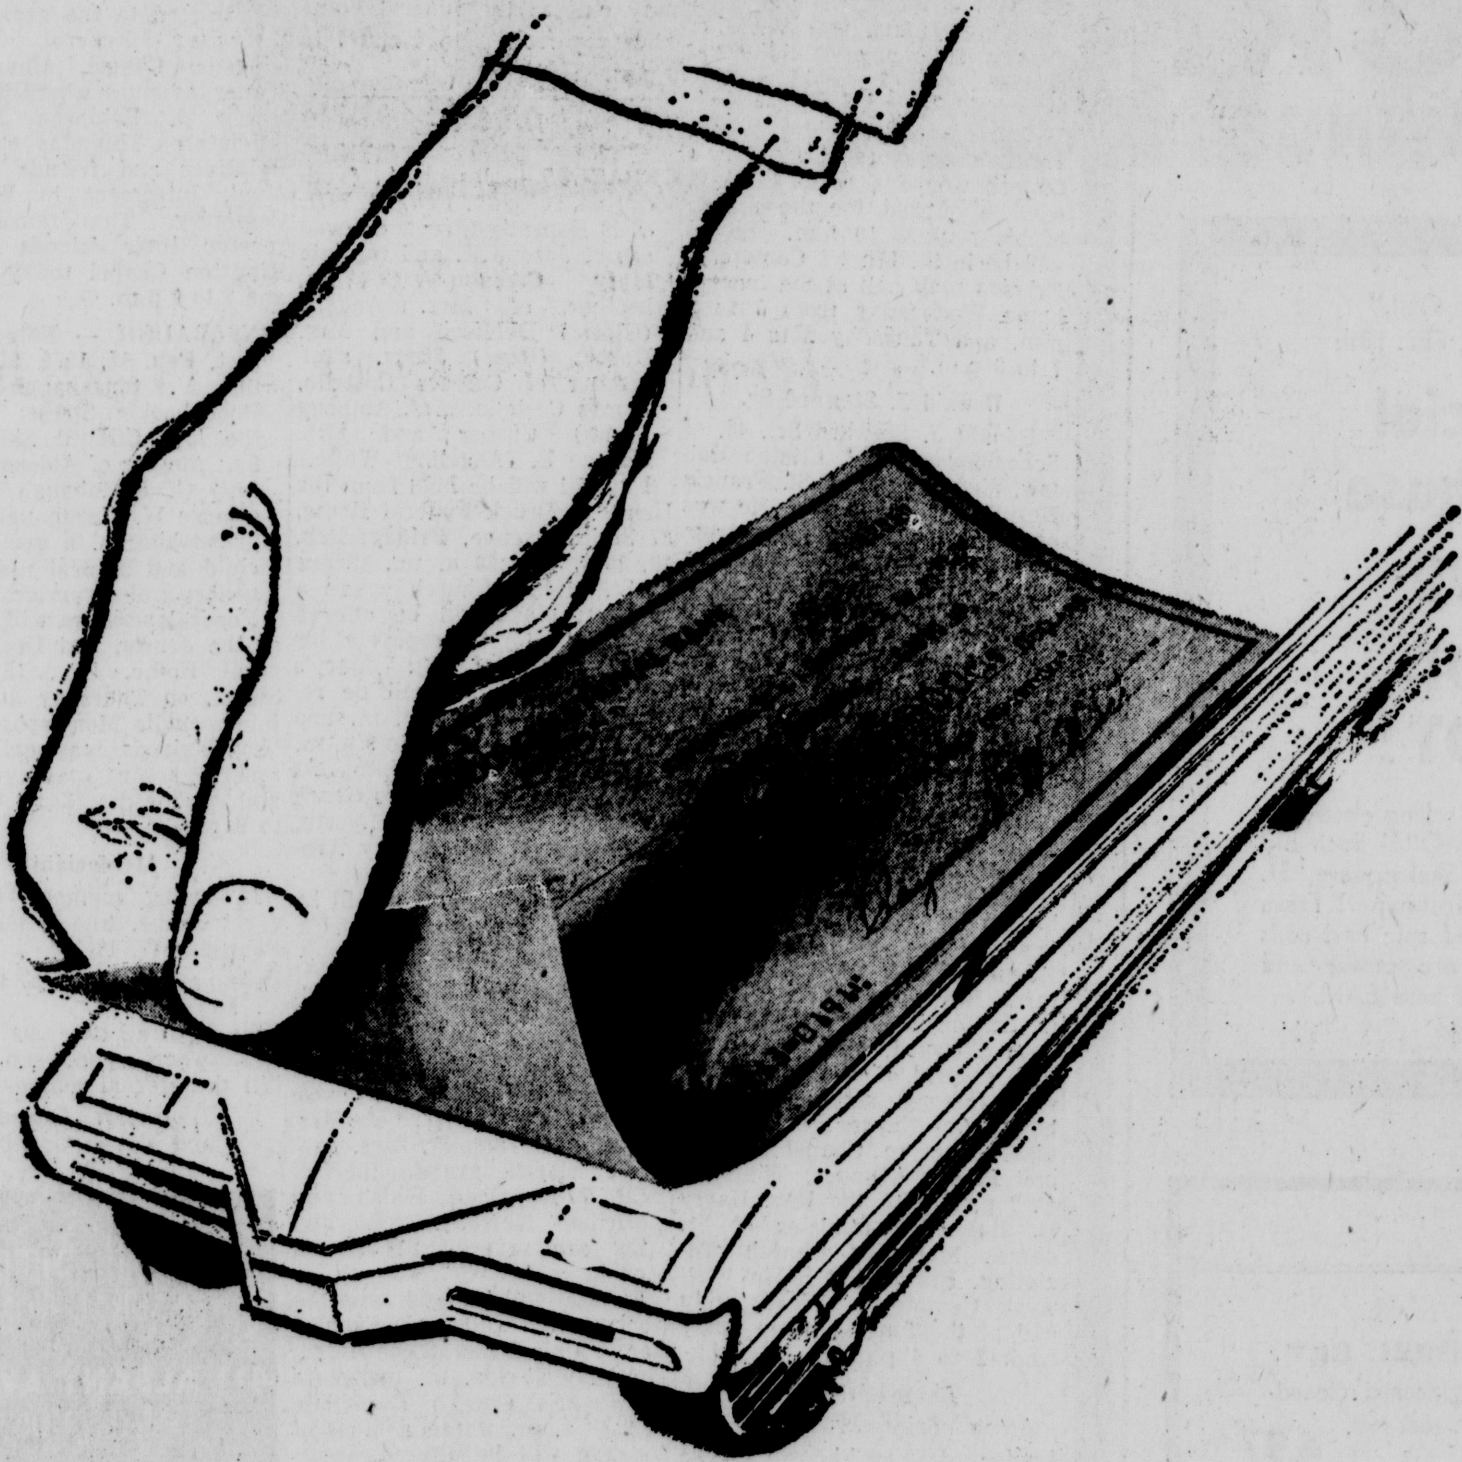

Mr. Waples, then continued by attempting to discredit the peace symbol by calling it Communist and anti Christ. I do not know where he obtained his information but it contradicts the information I have been able to obtain. According to some sources, including a short syndicated item carried in the Freeman, the symbol represents the core for the letters ND and stands for Nuclear Disarmament. It is also American in origin.

I too feel it is a shame that the symbol of our flag is so frequently misused as it has been by politicians who have learned that they can get the vote of many people by displaying our flag next to their names and saying nothing, as well as by businesses competing for your trade. I also feel it is a shame that too many men who willingly gave so much of themselves for our country have forgotten that they were protecting, not only our flag, but also the ideals for which it stands. They have allowed the ideals to become over-shadowed by the symbol.

 I congratulate Mr. Waples on taking time to express his opinions. It is difference of opinion and the right to express without fear that makes a democracy.

 Sincerely,
DORIS KELLY

Search Across Texas For Slayer of Deputies

DALLAS (UPI)—A man who "thinks he's Al Capone" was hunted today across Texas for the murder of three sheriff deputies.

Three separate murder charges were filed against Rene Adolfo Guzman, 33, and Mosies Zuniga Guzman, 35.

Mosies Guzman was arrested Monday night within hours of the shootings. A statewide search was under way for Rene Guzman.

"He thinks he's Al Capone," one of Rene's relatives said when the murder charges were filed against the younger brother about midnight Monday before a justice of the peace.

The Guzman brothers were accused of forcing five deputies, three from Dallas County and two from neighboring Ellis County, to drive to a secluded spot in the Trinity River bottoms where they allegedly planned to execute all of them. Three deputies were slain, one was wounded and the fifth escaped without injury.

Dallas County Sheriff Clarence Jones said Tuesday his staff "definitely can place" the Guzman brothers in the automobile that took the officers to the spot.

The officers were investigating a burglary charge filed in Ellis County. They were disarmed and bound inside a house in West Dallas and Jones said.

The search for Rene was concentrated in both Dallas and along the Mexican border where every motorist was stopped and questioned early today.

Man Sentenced To Year in Jail On Guilty Plea

ELLENVILLE—Taken into custody recently in connection with a police investigation of a rash of local burglaries, 21-year-old Francis Xavier Joy Jr. of 7 River Street, this village, appeared Tuesday night before Police Justice Ronald W. Elias and was sentenced to one year in the county jail.

Joy was originally arrested Jan. 28 by police and charged with three counts of burglary third degree in connection with break-ins at the Terrace Motel, Lorraine's Beauty Parlor and Howard's Service Station.

Last night Joy was permitted to plead guilty to reduced charges of criminal trespass, second degree, two counts. He was given the maximum sentence to the county jail. Joy had been in jail in lieu of $3,000 bail since his arrest.

Chancellor Outlines Goals To State Newspaper Editors

NEW YORK (UPI)—Chancellor Ernest L. Boyer of the State University of New York called Tuesday for the restoration of a spirit of good faith between campus and community to ease the chronic tension between "town and gown."

Noting that these tensions have "sometimes" become a chasm of truly menacing proportions, Boyer said, "if we are to regain our equilibrium as a people, this festering antagonism between campus and community must begin to heal."

Addressing a meeting of the State Society of Newspaper Editors, Boyer said, "Specifically, we must go more than halfway to meet our honest critics, not just quarrel with them."

"We must," he said, "recognize that smugness, aloofness or arrogance in an institution, dependent upon the goodwill of society as a whole is not only inappropriate but ultimately destructive of the best interests of the institution we hope to serve."

Boyer outlined three other goals of his administration which, he said, would help the university system through its painful period of transition and growth.

Constables Ill, Annual Parley Set March 2

KINGSTON—Because of illness that has confined several members to their homes, the annual meeting of the Ulster County Constables Association scheduled for Tuesday night, has been postponed until Tuesday, March 2 at the County Office Building, according to Chief Joseph Feraca.

Election of officers and discussion of plans for future projects including training for constables of all towns in Ulster County will be on the March meeting agenda.

Feraca said meanwhile, the supervisors in each township in the county will be contacted by the association, seeking their support in promoting and carrying out police training schools during the year with the cooperation of the FBI, State Police and other police agencies.

Oxydol	Cold Power	Rinso	Dreft

Switch from these detergents to new Arm & Hammer Laundry Detergent. It's 100% free of water polluting phosphates.

Phosphates in detergents promote algae pollution—killing fish, stagnating water, turning lakes into swamps. But new Arm & Hammer Laundry Deter-

Four From Area Complete Air Force Basic Training

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS—Four area airmen have completed the first phase of their Air Force careers, basic training at Lackland Air Force Base near San Antonio, Texas.

The four include: Airmen Michael B. Coliukos, whose guardian, Peter N. Coliukos Jr., lives at 33 Linderman Avenue, Kingston; George W. Curry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Curry of Rt. 1, Saugerties; Peter Fredkin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Fredkin of 161 Market Street, Saugerties; and Arthur W. Long Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Long Sr. of Kisor Road, Highland.

Airman Long has been assigned to Keesler AFB in Mississippi for training in the communications field. He is a 1966 graduate of Highland High School and attended the State University College at New Paltz. His wife is the former Bonnie J. Eker of Bloomington.

Airman Fredkin has been assigned to Chanute Air Force Base in Illinois for training in the aircraft maintenance field. He is a 1970 graduate of Saugerties High School.

Airman Coliukos has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base in Texas for training as a diet therapy specialist. He is a 1970 graduate of Kingston High School.

Airman Curry has also been assigned to Sheppard AFB but will train in the transportation field. He is a 1970 graduate of Saugerties High School.

In other Air Force news, John E. Strubel, son of Mrs. Margaret A. Strubel of 156 Tremper Avenue, Kingston, has been promoted to sergeant.

Sgt. Strubel is a supply specialist with a unit of the Strategic Air Command at Plattsburgh. The 1967 graduate of Kingston High School enlisted in the Air Force in March of 1969.

Joining Sgt. Strubel at Plattsburgh AFB is Staff Sgt. Jack E. Smith, son of Mrs. Marie Smith of Chattanooga, Tenn. Sgt. Smith is married to the former Jean Nydegger, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. LeRoy Nydegger of 230 Rt. 30, New Paltz.

Sgt. Smith, a maintenance scheduler, previously served at Bien Hoa Air Base in Vietnam. Staff Sgt. Lewis A. Ostrander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cedric E. Paltz, has arrived for duty at Tinker AFB, Oklahoma.

Sgt. Ostrander, a vehicle repairman, is assigned to a unit of the Air Force communications service. He previously served at High Wycombe Air Station in England. He is a 1953 graduate of Kingston High School and is married to the former Vera Atwood.

Two local airmen, Sgt. Robert J. Berger, son of Mrs. Louise Berger of 82 Ford Road, New Paltz, and Staff Sgt. Richard A. H. Showers, son of Mrs. David E. Showers Jr. of Tannersville, are members of Air

County Is Tops in Corn Yield

Howard Anderson, Accord, had the top yield in the state of New York in the National Corn Growers Association's 1970 National Non-Irrigated Corn Yield Contest with a yield of 173.32 bushels per acre on a 27 acre field, the association announced today.

Second place winner in New York was Douglas A. Parsons, Interlaken, in Seneca County, with a non-irrigated yield of 172.34 bushels per acre on a 25.7 acre field. Severn J. Hasbrouck Jr., Hurley, placed third in the state in the non-irrigated contest with 165.13 bushels per acre on a 26 acre field.

Five hundred thirty-five entrants in 40 states ranging from coast to coast competed for the three top national trophies which go to each of the winners in the Association's two contests—one for those farmers who grow irrigated corn and one for those who grow with natural rainfall only. The contest field had to be at least 25 acres in size. In the 1970 National Irrigated contest 9 entries had yields over 200 bushels per acre and in the National Non-Irrigated Contest, 2 entries were over the 200 mark.

Joe Maria of Walnut Grove, in northern California, won first nationally in the National Irrigated Contest with a new all time contest record high yield of 249.74 bushels per acre. Edwin P. Schultz, Faribault, Minn. won the National Non-Irrigated Contest at 212.42 bushels per acre.

Ridge Firemen Slate Dinner

At the monthly meeting of the Stone Ridge Fire Company held recently at the firehouse Chief John Albright assigned nine Plecton Home Alert Monitors to members who live in areas remote from the firehouse. He expressed the hope that all remaining qualified firefighters could be equipped with monitors by the end of this year. The monitors are compatible with the alerting system being set-up by Ulster County Fire Control Headquarters.

Chief Albright also released a map of the Stone Ridge Fire District. The map will be used in conjunction with the home alert system. The chief expressed concern as he pointed out that some private roads in the district are unmarked and therefore cannot be easily located on the map. He suggested that the persons owning such roads identify them with a sign located near the intersection of their road and a main road. This would insure faster response to an alarm on their premises, he said.

Robert Schneider disclosed that the annual company dinner will be held March 26 at the Skytop Restaurant. Reservation forms will be sent to all members.

FHA Announces Another Drop For Mortgages

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Interest rates on home loans insured by the federal government were reduced today by one-half of one per cent to 7 per cent—the third such cut in as many months.

Affected are mortgages insured by both the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration. Covered are not only home purchases but also FHA mortgages on apartment developments and other housing.

Announcement of the reduction was made by Housing Secretary George W. Romney and Donald E. Johnson, administrator of veteran affairs.

The effective date of the change is Thursday, Feb. 18—that is, the cut applies on applications received after today.

Romney's office said that outstanding commitments for insurance would continue to be honored at their original interest rate.

However, the announcement said various federal offices involved in mortgage loans "have been instructed to negotiate with lenders to seek reductions in the interest rate on subsidized mortgages to the new lower rate regardless of the rate of the original commitment."

Grace Period Elapses on Mohawk Bonds

UTICA, N.Y. (UPI)—Strike-bound Mohawk Airlines has passed another benchmark in its continued "financial restructuring."

The airline announced Tuesday it has passed the 30-day grace period after defaulting on payment of $240,000 in interest charges on a bond issue.

The payment on 6 per cent Convertible Subordinated Debentures was due Jan. 15.

The lapse of the grace period means the bond holders or the indenture trustee, the Marine Midland Western bank of Buffalo, could demand accelerated payment of the $8 million principal. However, they were not expected to do so.

Mohawk also has a March 1 deadline for payment of $3.3 million in other debt charges missed in December and January.

The Utica-based carrier said in a statement it expects to make the payments as part of its ongoing "financial restructuring."

The regional airline has been grounded by the pilots' strike since Nov. 12. Negotiations have stalled on the issue of how much should be submitted to binding arbitration.

Deputy Charged With Killing Pregnant Wife

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (UPI)—A Niagara County sheriff's deputy who was suspended from duty and then resigned was charged Tuesday with murder in the shooting death of his 31-year-old pregnant wife.

James W. Nicholson, 31, and the father of three children, was arraigned before a peace justice and ordered taken to Erie County jail in Buffalo pending a psychiatric examination.

Authorities said Nicholson called deputies shortly after midnight to report the shooting of his wife, Rita.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market opened weak in heavy trading today.

Shortly after the opening, declines led advances, 113 to 105. And the Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.61 at 889.43.

In the steel group, Bethlehem dipped ¼ to 22½, while Republic surrendered ¼ to 29.

Chrysler eased ¼ to 27 among the motors. General Motors also gave up ¼ to 82½.

In the chemicals, Dow Chemical and Allied Chemical dropped ½ apiece to 82½ and 28½, respectively. Monsanto lost ¼ to 39½.

Jersey Standard gave up ¼ to 74½ among the oils. Atlantic Richfield lost a full point to 70½, but Standard of California gained ½ to 54½.

Penn Central dipped ¼ to 6½ in the rails. Northwest Industries eased ¼ to 22½.

Two County Drug Raids Result in 12 Arrests

By WALTER S. CLARK
ELLENVILLE

Narcotics raids in Accord and the Town of Woodstock early today netted 11 persons and a juvenile and resulted in the seizure of a quantity of drugs and implements adapted for administering narcotics.

Seven arrests were made by State Police BCI officers and uniformed troopers from the Ellenville station when a rented house on Route 209 in Accord was raided during the early hours.

Kingston BCI agents and Woodstock police arrested four during a raid at a VanDale Road residence in that community.

Arrested during the Accord raid were: Donald Bittner, 17, Robert Case, 18, Jeffrey Stocking, also 18, Carlos Santiago, 18, and Frederic Shaffer, 17, all of Accord; Vincent Dunn, 16, and John Flynn, 23, both of Kerhonkson, and the juvenile.

They were all charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs, 6th degree—marijuana, and criminal possession of implements—pipes and other articles—adapted for use of narcotics.

Bittner also was charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs—LSD, and obstructing governmental administration.

Dutchess Board Rans Budget Of Governor

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (AP)—The Dutchess County Board of Representatives voted unanimously Tuesday to denounce Gov. Rockefeller's proposed $8.5 billion state budget.

The Republican-controlled board passed a resolution which called upon state legislators to vote against the tax increases contained in the budget and for the state to cut back in its expenditures.

The 37-man board has nine Democrats. The resolution stated that the board felt Rockefeller's proposal was beyond the capability of the Dutchess County taxpayers to pay.

Leaving Scene Charged to Man

KINGSTON

Cited by police on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident, Kenneth A. Dyson Sr., 68, 10 Snyder Avenue, appeared in City Court Tuesday and received an adjournment until Feb. 17.

According to a police report, Dyson was driving his car along Clinton Avenue on Monday, when the vehicle allegedly struck a parked vehicle owned by John H. Lochran of 460 Ovington Avenue, Brooklyn. Dyson reportedly left the scene.

State Police BCI officers and uniformed troopers. Kingston State Police BCI officers and Woodstock Police Chief William E. Waterous assisted by town constables, armed with a search warrant shortly after midnight today raided a residence on Van Dale Road in that community and arrested four persons. A quantity of heroin consisting of 25 decks was confiscated with implements— and methadone. The implements included hypodermic syringes. Charged with criminal possession of dangerous drugs in violation of the Penal Law, criminal possession of implements in violation of the Public Health Law, were: Kevin Denahy, 21, of the Central Hotel, New York City; Timothy France, 25, whose residence the raid was conducted; George Valentine, 24, of South Washington Avenue, Athens, Green County and Miss Nanon Kopko, 21 of Van Dale Road, Woodstock.

Honorable Best-Selling Paperback

We posed the Japanese picture purposely, to give you a fresh perspective on YOUR newspaper, here at home.

Special Word For Honorable Advertisers

Water scene may be more beautiful but The Daily Freeman has more circulation! Scene shown is at Miyajima, the Island of Shrines on Japan's Inland Sea, one of the most beautiful sites in the land. Huge crowds are drawn here . . . in much the same way The Daily Freeman draws crowds to your sales messages. But there's a big difference: in Japan they go to worship. In your ads they go to buy.

The point being that The Daily Freeman is never "foreign" to you, though the news is new. It's YOUR newspaper, written and edited for you and your family by people who know your interests, know your needs for local information. Our columns are like the hometown streets — familiar. You know where to turn, where to look, what to find. Politics, sports, weddings, business news, club events, church news—all here.

And of no less importance, the wide variety of values in the ads—good reading, good guide to buying. Definitely news you need and read . . . from your favorite merchants.

Because of this, The Daily Freeman is the No. 1 Best-seller in this community. Best-read, most widely circulated, and the most effective advertising medium.

Nice to think you're reading a Best-seller, every issue, isn't it?

Nixon Health Bill Cheaper, Fish Says

KINGSTON President Nixon's health proposal would work primarily through the existing private health industry and would cost one-twentieth of what Sen. Edward Kennedy's "cradle-to-the-grave" national health insurance plan would cost, according to Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.

The 28th District Republican said this week that a major debate is brewing in Congress over the issue of comprehensive health benefits for our entire population versus expanded health care through private insurance companies.

The proposal for some sort of national health insurance dates back to the New Deal era, Fish explained, "but the existing crisis in health care in the United States, recognized by all the fueled by spiraling medical costs and gaps in care have revived the issue."

"The leading Congressional exponent of a National Health Insurance plan is Sen. Kennedy of Massachusetts," Fish continued. "Under the Kennedy bill a compulsory national health insurance program (NHI) would cover every person in the country. Gone would be the need for both the existing Medicaid and Medicare. In their place, automatic benefits would accrue to every individual residing in the United States, regardless of income, need, and past employment record. With few exceptions, benefits would include payment — without any deductible feature — of all doctor and hospital costs, fees for visits to a doctor's office, dental care for children, many drugs, up to 45 days of active psychiatric hospitalization treatment and up to 120 days of skilled nursing home care during a benefit period."

"NHI would be financed 50 per cent from federal revenues, 36 per cent from employer payroll tax, 12 per cent from an employee payroll tax and 12 per cent from a self-employment tax for individuals running their own business. Estimates of the cost are $50-$75 billion per year beginning in 1974."

"Advocates of the NHI plan claim that it is the only way to provide good lowest health care to the entire population. Opponents fear the high costs, increased government regulation of the medical profession and the impact on the private health insurance industry. On this last point, many argue the NHI proposal would virtually wipe out the $10 billion a year private health insurance industry."

Congressman Fish explained further that the Nixon Administration is also showing great concern over rising medical costs and the gaps in care, which make it imperative that some way be found to help the average citizen pay for his medical and hospital costs. In his State of the Union Message, the President declared: "America has long been the wealthiest nation in the world."

Fish said that "administration sources indicate the President's proposal will include such features as: an inducement or requirement that employers buy private health insurance for every employee, specifying certain minimum benefits. Also, the retention of the existing Medicaid program for senior citizens and the elimination of Medicaid with the substitution of a program for the needy, with the Federal Government paying between $500 and $800 in annual premiums per family for the purchase of health plans through private health insurance companies."

Grassi, Reid Rematch Looms in Rosendale

By JON POWERS

ROSENDALE
Rosendale Mayor Carl Grassi has announced his intention to run for the top spot in the village government for a second term.

Grassi, a Conservative with strong Republican backing, was elected last year to fill the unexpired term of former Mayor William P. Curran.

This year, Grassi will seek reelection on March 16 to a full, two-year term as Mayor of Rosendale.

Grassi's chief opponent in this year's mayoralty race is expected to be Joseph Reid, a former mayor himself, whom Grassi narrowly defeated in 1970. Reid recently received the endorsement of the Rosendale Democratic Party.

Grassi is running on the Conservative Party ticket. It is expected that he will receive the endorsement of the Republican Party as the campaign progresses.

Grassi had previously indicated that he would not run for a second term as mayor, but his quick turn-about reportedly resulted from an announcement by Democrats that they would support Reid.

Reid was nominated by the Democrats at a party caucus

Sunday night. He has not yet accepted that nomination, however, and he told The Freeman Tuesday that he has made no definite plans to run for mayor's office. He indicated that he would solicit advice from several unnamed officials before revealing positive plans. Reid served as mayor from 1967 to 1969. He was succeeded by Curran.

The Grassi-Reid battle in 1970 was a heated affair, with the current mayor charging that Reid had violated the village's trailer ordinance and had threatened to sue the village for $250,000. Reid emphatically denied both charges.

Grassi ultimately won the election by a scant 23 votes, becoming, in the process, one of the first Conservatives ever to be elected a mayor in New York State.

For a short time last month, it appeared as though there would be no need for anyone to run as mayor. A resolution calling for dissolution of the village was to have been put before the taxpayers and, had it been approved, the entire village structure, including all its offices, would have been liquidated. That resolution, however, was later withdrawn from the March ballot.

The announcement that Grassi would seek a second term was made by Walter Byer, his campaign manager. In a prepared statement, Byer said: "Carl P. Grassi, Conservative incumbent mayor, announced plans today to seek reelection. Grassi, who had previously indicated he would not run, said his decision to run was based on a Democratic announcement that former Mayor Joseph Reid had gotten that party's nomination. Grassi indicated that much of the past year's efforts had been directed towards correcting some of the errors of Reid's administration and he said he would hate to see those efforts wasted."

Byer would not expand upon the "errors of Reid's administration."

Grassi is a 12-year resident of Rosendale and is a member of the Rondout Valley Board of Education and the Rosendale Volunteer Fire Department. He is a native of Mt. Vernon and is employed by IBM.

Bond Issue Increase for Complex Scheduled for Rhinebeck Vote

By TIM A. SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK
The Village of Rhinebeck will hold a referendum in conjunction with village elections March 16 to ask the citizens for permission to increase a bond issue for the firehouse-village hall complex by $20,000.

The proposal is to use the interest accrued on the formerly approved bond for $250,000 in addition to the principal, totaling $270,000. Paper ballots will be used.

In related business, the Village Board discussed Tuesday night at its marathon 4½-hour session the necessity for the purchase of furnishings for the new edifice, to be occupied this spring.

There were no grievances aired for Grievance Day in either the Village of Rhinebeck or Red Hook.

The board also set a date of March 2 for the final zoning hearing for the proposed village comprehensive plan, about a year after the last public hearing. The Town of Rhinebeck will hold its final hearing Feb. 24.

Police Commissioner Frank Kinney proposed a resolution increasing tickets for parking violations in snow removal areas from $1 to $5 for the first offense, $10 for the second offense and $25 for the third offense per season.

And the resolution proposed that vehicles would be towed away at the owner's expense if not moved within 24 hours of receiving a ticket. It was approved.

It was decided to disconnect the box alarm system for fire calls, as it is seldom-used. The Rhinebeck Fire Company has an extensive radio system, and most fires are reported by telephone.

Town of Rhinebeck officials including Supervisor William Allen, Councilman Louis Asher, and Justice Herman Tietjen joined the village meeting to discuss the feasibility of hiring one zoning enforcement officer to serve both town and village once the laws are passed.

Both sides were amenable to legal action against violators. Sipperley is in the plumbing business, and connected many of the systems to wells in the mid-1960s. He said the situation was like a "lawyer and a client," and did not want to become involved.

A special Village Board meeting was set for Feb. 23 to iron out difficulties with the porarily withdrew a motion to water ordinance. Mayor Peter F. Sipperley excused himself from attending because of what he claimed to be possible violations of confidences.

The problem is that the village ordinance requires all residences to use the village water system. There are numerous homes which have "cross-connected" their plumbing to their own wells, and repairs," he said. "The people and some board members want to take action to prevent further occurrences and take remedial situation" to fix the motors running the auxiliary system so the village could not possibly be caught without any water. Board members agreed to have a letter sent to water plant engineer Frazer of the Capital District urging him to speed up work in repairing the plant and providing for additional safety features. They agreed that there has been "too much procrastination."

Mayor Sipperley said that the March 9 Village Board meeting would be held during the officially proclaimed Girl Scout Week.

And the Board passed a resolution presenting firemen Barry Simmons and Lt. Richard Rosell with certificates of merit from the village for their acts of heroism at the Sunday fire which destroyed the Seaton home on West Chestnut Street.

Tickets Still Left For Renaissance Show

Tickets are still available for Sunday's Project Renaissance benefit dinner and show at the Granit Hotel in Accord, with several revisions in ticket prices and entertainment plans made recently by hotel officials.

Price for admission to the dinner and show continues at a $7.50 minimum donation, but persons will be admitted to the entertainment portion of the program, beginning at 9:30 p.m., for $4.

In addition, a rock concert for the youthful set will be held at 9:30 p.m. with admission priced at $3.

Persons paying the $7.50 minimum donation may attend both the dinner and entertainment. At the rock concert, The Emmis, a United Artists recording group from New York City will entertain along with a local group, the Dimension Complex.

The dinner commences at 6:30 p.m. Entertainment for the evening will include nationally famous recording star Neil Sedaka and radio personality Bruce Morrow. In addition, a dance program will be presented.

The benefit is being held to raise funds for the Project Renaissance facility in Ellenville, a self-help narcotics rehabilitation center sponsored in part by the State of New York, the Westchester County Board of Mental Health and private donations.

At present there are 75 addicts undergoing therapy at the treatment center off Uster Heights Road west of Ellenville. Attempts are currently being made to provide treatment services at the center for Ulster County residents.

The show is being sponsored by the Granit Hotel.

Napanoch Slated for Some Repairs

NAPANOCH
The Eastern New York State Correctional Facility at Napanoch is in for some renovation, according to Maurice M. Blow, superintendent.

The specific building to be renovated is the facility's old administration building, according to Blow.

Closing date for bids on the contract, No. 22632C, will be March 3.

Blow said the reason for the renovation is "the building is very old and not adequate for our needs."

After renovation, the building will provide recreation in the evenings for the cell blocks on either side, and greatly improved interview facilities.

Blow said the construction was not prompted by the recent state evaluation, but had been in the works for about five years. "All of our construction is planned over a five year span," said Blow.

Stone Ridge Library Fair Sets 1971 Theme

Choosing as its theme the turbulent, fantastic "Thirties," The Stone Ridge Library Fair committee has begun planning "A Fantastic Thirties Fair" for June 26 on the Library grounds.

Chairman Mrs. Horace Sarr met with last year's chairman, Mrs. Robert Gannon, and next year's chairman, Arthur Woodcock, at Mrs. Sarr's home in High Falls recently to discuss the innovations that will characterize this year's fair. Also present were publicity co-chairmen, Mrs. Tad Richards and Mrs. Gabriel Kajeckas.

When the Stone Ridge Library Fair first began, back in 1936, America was experiencing a period of great change. It was an age of extremes, much like our own: the faces of hardship and glamour mingled. The committee hopes to capture the various moods of the Thirties through displays and the traditional booths for which the Fair is famous. Back in 1936, the Fair's proceeds for the Library came to $50. In 1970, the Fair realized over $3,000, this enabling the Library to serve its community ever more completely.

Panel Discussion This Evening; 'Women in Today's World'

A panel discussion of "Women in Today's World" will take place this evening at the regular monthly meeting of Ulster County Republican Women's Club which is slated for 8 o'clock at Governor Clinton Hotel.

Modérateur will be Mrs. Marguerite Derringer. Serving on the panel will be Mrs. Carol Kramer, membership; Lillian Crosswell, finance; Sally Brinnier, youth; Barbara Read, publicity; June Davidson, community involvement.

The meeting is open to the public and refreshments will be served.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:
I love to sew, but hate to run my iron over pins left in the ironing board.
So I took a scrap of heavy material, cut two 5"x8" rectangles with pinkish shears and sewed three sides—the short ends each with an end of a piece of 20-inch elastic included.
I stuffed it with my old nylon hose and sewed up the fourth side.
It made a pincushion "bracelet" to slip over the end of my ironing board.
Now my pins are where they won't scrape my iron at the same time, won't fall on the floor.

Donna Lee Hidrns

Dear Heloise:
Here's a hint for mothers of toddlers...
My two-year-old could be so persistent in still asking for suckers, pretzel sticks, etc. when they were all gone. Nothing would convince him that they still weren't hiding in the cupboard somewhere.
Now, once finished, I keep the empty bags to show that "gone" means "GONE!"
Once he sees the bag or box empty, he walks away satisfied. Afterwards I throw them away until next time and it saves an argument.

Elaine Scharf

Dear Heloise:
My husband is a hunter need I say more?
In our den we have his pride and joy mounted right there on the wall for all to see.
It's a fourteen point mule deer and we have head, horns and all.

This year when decorating for Christmas I took a piece of red foil and covered his nose. The children were delighted to have their own reindeer.
At last it's good for something!

Hunter's Wife

Dear Heloise:
My mother said that sweeping, dusting, mopping and emptying the dishwasher isn't housework.
If this isn't housework, then what is?

Just Wondering

Dear Heloise:
A year ago, I purchased a reasonably expensive "wash-and-wear" wig, the object of many favorable compliments. Imagine my disappointment when I found that the head band had stretched to the point of making the wig an uncomfortable disaster on my head.

Not wishing to let it go, but not able to wear it, I bought some inexpensive nylon elastic thread and sewed it in and out of the head band and gathered it at the ends where I knotted it. All of this was on the inside of the head band, of course.

Heloise, do you know that it is now more comfortable and secure on my head than it had been when I purchased it. And if the thread wears or breaks after awhile, simply remove the old and quickly replace it with a new elastic thread.

GOP WOMEN'S CLUB in the Town of Wawarsing held installation of officers in Weng's Restaurant, Napanoch, recently. Among those attending were, seated (L-R) Mrs. Frank Harkin, treasurer; Mrs. William Brinnier, Ulster County Republican vice chairman; Mrs. James J. Murray, president; Mrs. Karl Fleckenstein, vice president; Mrs. Iona Noetzel, outgoing president; rear (L-R) Francis J. Vogt, district attorney; Albert Spada, Ulster County Clerk; Mrs. Edwin E. Hoar Jr., dinner chairman; and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell. Mrs. Olive Fleckenstein and Miss Said Constant assisted with dinner arrangements. The Town of Wawarsing Republican Women's Club is planning several projects including a penny social, bakeless bake sale and an annual luncheon in September.

HVPS Winter Chamber Music Series Here

ARRANGE FOR RECEPTION — The second concert in the winter chamber music series of Ulster County Council of Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society was heard Saturday, Feb. 13, at the Church of the Holy Cross in Kingston. Guest artists were the Luis Garcia-Renart Sextet: Jacqueline Maurer, James Maurer, violin; Carolyn Voigt, Arthur Royall, viola; Glenda Bossen, Lius Garcia-Renart, cello. Composers represented included Haydn, Beethoven and Brahms. A well-attended reception took place after the concert in the church hall. Shown here making final arrangements are (L-R) Mrs. Roy Ickes; Miss Margaret Beal chairman of the chamber music series; and Roy Ickes. Other committee members include Richard North; the Rev. David Bronson; Mrs. Amos Newcombe; and Miss Claudia Messina who directs the reception. A program of Baroque music is scheduled for March 6. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Elizabeth Post Answers Etiquette Problems

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(© 1971, Emily Post Institute, Inc.)

DEAR MRS. POST: Am I being selfish for wanting more privacy in my home? My bachelor brother-in-law lives on our farm and comes to our house almost every night to watch TV. I like to have a few nights with just my family.

PAULA JACKSON
Dear Mrs. Jackson: You have every right to have as many evenings alone with your family as you wish. The only way to let your brother-in-law know this is to tell him, as tactfully as you can. Tomorrow night, when he leaves, say, "We love to see you Bo, but tomorrow night is family night. Come back again Wednesday." If you start telling him what days he is wanted, he may soon get the picture.

DEAR MRS. POST: If the head of the house answers the phone and the call is for his wife but the caller does not offer his name, should the husband say, "May I tell her who's calling?" or "Just a moment, please." Is the same true when the wife answers and the call is for her husband?

Mrs. G.
Dear Mrs. G.: When one person answers the telephone and the call is for another who is able to come to the phone at once, he should say, "Just a moment, please." If he asks who is calling first, he may appear to be snoopy, or if the person being called cannot come to the phone at the moment, it may sound to the caller as if he did not wish to come after being told who was calling. The one being called can always say, "I can't come just now; will you find out who it is? I'll call back as soon as I can." But he should never ask the one who answers to ask who it is and then say "I can't talk to him." This clearly implies that he does not wish to speak to that person. The same holds true for both husbands and wives.

DEAR MRS. POST: Recently I attended two funerals, and in lieu of flowers I gave money and marked the cards "charity of your choice" since neither friend had belonged to a church. However, both parties kept the money themselves. Is this proper? Would it be correct for me to specify my choice of charity, naming my own church, the Humane Society or some other fund of my own?

Mrs. S.
Dear Mrs. S.: It was inexcusable of the people to keep the money you sent for a charity. In the future, send your contribution to a charity which you think would have meant something to your friends. If the person died of heart disease or cancer, for example, contribute to any of the agencies concerned with the disease.
My booklet, "How to Plan and Budget Your Wedding," is ideal for brides-to-be, their fiancés and parents in helping to prepare for the "perfect" wedding. To get a copy, send 35 cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman.

Drastic Changes In American Dating

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the spring of 1965, a strange social phenomenon rocked the nation's singles population. Men found their regular weekend dates changing to occasional ones. Women spent less and less time agonizing by the telephone waiting for the accustomed invitation.

In fact, the entire American dating style seemed on the verge of drastic change. But no one pressed the panic button. None of the singles seemed upset or displeased over the situation. For this reason, there wasn't any real decline in the number of dates — only in the way they were set up.

The simple explanation was the introduction five years ago of computer dating on the college campus. Called Operation Match and termed by some as the first "sex explanatory course" for college students, the new dating system was actually an electronic, computerized introduction service.

It eliminated the hand-wringing, chain-smoking, dry-throated feeling when boy and girl meet for the first time. But it did not eliminate the excitement, mystique and fun of the blind date.

The computer dating process dreamed up by Stephen Milgrim, a Massachusetts Institute of Technology industrial engineering graduate, works this way:

Both male and female fill out a carefully planned questionnaire designed to determine their social likes and dislikes, their personalities, and their date preferences.

Each male questionnaire is then fed into a computer programmed with all female questionnaires and "matches" are produced electronically. Each subscriber receives the name, address and telephone number of those members of the opposite sex they are determined to be most compatible with in terms of how they answer their questionnaires.

Five years later, the success of the program is reflected in the fact that Operation Match has performed millions of "match dates," thousands of which have resulted in marriage. The company now is publicly owned and there are offices in Great Neck, N.Y., and Los Angeles, Calif.

REHEARSING FOR PLAY — Members of the Concerned Young Adults of Immanuel Lutheran Church, 22 Livingston Street, Kingston, are shown here in a recent rehearsal for the production, Tune in on Terror, which will be presented Friday and Saturday evenings at 7:30 p. m. in the church hall. Directed by Bonnie Manka and Gerald Grzenda, the comedy will feature (L-R) Jim Studt, Debbie Ziros, Lu Ann Kirchner, and Penny Gray. Sudden disappearances and disembodied spirits are just a few of the strange happenings promised in this humorous tale of terror. The public is invited. Proceeds will benefit the church. (Freeman photo by Haines).

MARDI GRAS participants, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pratt, showed up for the Kingston Sport Club function at Oehler's Mountain Lodge on Saturday night, Feb. 13 as "Caveman and Alley Cat." The masquerade ball drew a capacity attendance and a variety of costumes. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

SOCCER THEME was chosen by guests Mrs. Ruth Froehlich and Mrs. Martina Rauscher who attended the Kingston Sport Club's Mardi Gras and masquerade ball. They appeared at the social in outfits depicting "Soccer Ball and Goalie." (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Part-Time Jobs Can Help Beat Inflation

NEW YORK (AP) — The hand that rocks the cradle these days often is apt to be busy counting up the pretty penny raked in from part-time earnings.

With women in the work force to stay, and a chronic labor shortage in just about every field, part-time jobs for women have become an established thing.

Usually the part-time workers are wives and mothers who don't have the time or the inclination to get into the work force full-time but don't want to stay out of it either.

Their goal, more often than not, is the obvious one: money — either for a specific project like a vacation or simply to keep family earnings apace with inflation.

How much can a wife earn in a part-time job? It depends, in part, on how much time she puts in — but beyond that there's a wide variation in hourly pay from one field to another. Here's a breakdown on some of the usual part-time jobs held down by housewives — and what they pay.

Baby-sitter — This is one of the most usual part-time jobs, but one of the lowest paid. The responsible adult earns more than a teen-ager but it's still only about $1.25 an hour.

Care of the elderly — This pays a little more, $1.50 an hour.

Home typing — Usually it's term papers and manuscripts, and students and writers traditionally are not rich. The hourly rate is $1.25.

One of the newest part-time fields for housewives, and one of the highest paid, is home selling — with everything from jewelry, toys, housewares and clothing available via the home party method. Beeline Fashions, a company that sells clothing entirely through fashion show parties, says that stylists who display their newest fashions in parties in private homes can figure on about $25 a night profit from a three-hour party.

Supermarket checker — There's more than one way to bring home the groceries from the neighborhood supermarket. About $2.50 an hour.

OCS Moves Step Closer to UCAL Title

By IRA FUSFELD

NEW PALTZ
Onteora had one more thing to prove before it could stake its claim on the UCAL basketball championship.

Already the Indians had shown an extraordinary ability to rebound and play as a team with any and all performers on the floor contributing baskets. But Onteora had never really been pressed into making a comeback... until last night here when Coach Ron Pape's quintet spotted New Paltz a large first half lead only to turn the game around and beat the Hugies, 68-57.

It was the Indians' ninth league victory against one of the top teams in the state, a feat giving them a two game advantage on New Paltz, thereby clinching no worse than a tie for the title. The finalizer should come on Friday when Onteora goes to last place Pine Bush.

"We just never gave up," the related Coach Pape said after his squad had erased a 32-27 NP midway edge to outscore the home team 41-25 in the second half. "These kids have all the heart in the world, they don't believe in losing," he exclaimed. However for a while in the opening stanzas it looked like it was New Paltz's night. The Hugies broke an Onteora zone with 10 of the last 12 first quarter points as Harold Anderson and Brad Hart shot, Jay Ackert battled and Ed Grainger drove. New Paltz held the margin into period two but then their hard-nosed defensive play began to turn on them. First Ackert got hit with three quick fouls in NP Coach Frank Davis, forced to put the junior center on the bench, inserting John Palonis, but Ackert had been doing an admirable job rebounding and containing Onteora's Dan Smith. His loss hurt.

Now the fouls were coming in earnest sending Onteora to the line for shot after shot. Ackert came back in and committed number four. The Indians hit 15 of 19 free throws in the first 16 minutes and that kept them in contention.

Three Smith hoops in the early going of quarter three made it a two-point game and from then on it was just a matter of time as Grainger was to hit the foul limit and Onteora just continued to play away.

By the beginning of the final period the Indians were ahead by three and New Paltz was starting to come down from the tremendous high to which they had built themselves for the crucial match. When Anderson and Palonis notched their fifth fouls the game was no longer in doubt.

Calling Onteora's victory a "team win" could be considered copping out on a cliché. But what else can be said?

Guard Joe Bush was superb, going both ways and finishing with a game high 19 points (Anderson had 19 for the Hugies). Steve Fraiser was tough underneath, always fighting. Vlad Hoyt picked up some key buckets while Dan Smith, though not particularly on offensively, nonetheless led the rebounding game. And backcourt man Dan Brown played another gutsy game, especially when it's noted that he had four fouls for most of the second half.

"Nobody is greedy on this team," Coach Pape said proudly, "they all work together."

Over on the losing side, Coach Davis of New Paltz might have been tempted to blame the officiating for the loss. Figures showed his team with a 25-20 edge in field goals, but losing the contest on the basis of 28 Onteora free throws to eight for his side.

But Davis, disappointment in the outcome written all over his face, only would say that his team "turned the ball over too much."

That New Paltz might get another shot at Onteora in the Section Nine playoffs didn't appease the Hugie mentor: "I wanted the UCAL," he said sadly.

Roosevelt Nips Sawyers, 43-42

SAUGERTIES
Oh! Those one point games! Nobody in the world would be surprised if Saugerties Hawkins goes to sleep at night and dreams only of a gigantic, italic, neon, chartreuse-colored ONE.

The Sawyers dropped a one-point decision to visiting Roosevelt, 43-42, last night. It was the fourth time this season that the Sawyers have played a single digit contest. And tougher than that, it was the third one of the four that they have lost. SHS is 4-8 in the league, 5-11 overall.

Add to that, two two-point upsets over Poughkeepsie and a couple of three-pointers that went the wrong way and one wouldn't be remotely surprised to find a grey hair or two on Hawkins' young head.

The Sawyers didn't figure to win the Dutchess County Scholastic League Central Section title, but, had the ball bounced the other way once and awhile, the Hawkins-coached squad might have been right in the thick of things.

The Roosevelt cagers, a vastly improved squad, did win the DCSL Central Section and Saugerties' two wins over powerful Poughkeepsie, helped put the Presidents on top of the heap.

However, just when it appeared that the visitors were going to say "Thanks", by handing over a victory to their hosts, Brad McAllister stepped to the line and sank the second of a two-shot foul with about three seconds left to win the game.

Saugerties called timeout and tried to set up a play, but the shot was taken after the buzzer went off and the Presidents had the victory tucked away.

The losers led by two, 42-40, with three minutes remaining. Jerry Maigieri was fouled and missed a one-and-one. Maigieri came up with the loose ball and was fouled again. And, again he missed the opportunity to ice it away.

Dave Smith grabbed the rebound for SHS and he was fouled going up for the shot. Smith then proceeded to miss both attempts and Roosevelt had the ball.

McAllister, who later became the hero of this saga, almost became the goat as he was fouled taking a shot and missed both charity tosses.

Rich Koegel, who played a whale of a game for the losers, and Smith, fumbled the ball out of bounds and the Presidents took over. McAllister fired a pass down the middle to Vern Schoonmaker. Schoonmaker hit the layup and tied the tilt, 42-42, with 26 seconds left.

Then followed another comedy of errors. Saugerties lost the ball on a turnover. Roosevelt handed the elusive leather sphere back to the home side. Smith took a jumper in close that bounced around and out. Roosevelt got the rebound and called time to set up the play to McAllister.

The foul was committed and Brad appeared that he was going to let the game go into overtime as he missed the first shot. He then donned the hero's mantle and sank the winning

"We just blew it," said Hawkins. "That's all I can say. It's been that kind of a year with us. We just couldn't hold the lead. I can't figure it out. Koegel did a great job for us, though. He has been great and has worked hard all year," concluded the Sawyers' mentor.

Koegel finished the tilt with 19 markers. Vervyn and Jim Schoonmaker hit 14 points apiece for the winners.

Ellenville Wings Ganders, 73-68

By MORT LAFFIN

STONE RIDGE
Costly fouls and a tough man-to-man press by visiting Ellenville sent the Rondout Valley Ganders down to their sixth loss of the season as the Blue Devils topped the host five, 73-68, in a non-league basketball tilt last night. Rondout is now 8-6 on the season.

Bill Joyner hit 21 points for the losers, but picked up his fourth foul in the second period and sat out part of the second and third stanzas as the winners rolled up a 13-point lead. Joyner came off the bench to spark a Gander rally late in the final quarter but picked up his fifth personal and left the game with 5:33 remaining. The host team trailed by five at that point, 67-62.

Coach John "Chick" Meehan's boys suffered two more disqualifications late in the final stanza as Big Ron Hall committed his fifth at 2:54 and Bruce Burr fouled out at 1:31. Rondout was still trailing by five at that point, 71-66.

Gander reserves Jeff Decker, George Wallace and starter Steve Gutkin kept Rondout close as Ellenville was hard-pressed to hang onto the lead. However, the Rondout five missed the scoring of Joyner and the rebounding of Hall and Burr, and, they were never able to make up the difference.

Alfie Able was high scorer for the winners and the game, hitting 25 markers, 18 of those in the first half. Geoff Walsh added 14, Ed Younger hit for 13 and lefty Dave Goodman had 12.

Ellenville, now 9-5, started the game in a rotating defense that moved from a man-to-man full-court press to a very tight 2-1-2 zone as the ball moved up the floor.

The Ganders insisted on trying to pass the ball through the zone, instead of moving around it and, as a result, had many turnovers that the winners were able to capitalize on. Able did yeoman's work under the boards as he would snatch a rebound, pass outside and then dash down court to lead the fast break.

Ellenville led 17-16 at the end of the first quarter and then extended to a 42-33 edge at the half.

The Able-Joyner duel under the boards was a sight to behold. First Able would go up and "can" a shot against the Ganders. Then, Joyner would come down and stuff one for Rondout. Both boys are outstanding performers.

KHS Swimmers Breeze

HAVERSTRAW
Kingston High School swimmers notched their ninth win of the season — most in the team's history — here Tuesday as they toppled North Rockland, 67-28.

The Maroons, now 9-3 and near another DUSO title, bettered the mark of eight set last year as the Ron Gabriele-coached squad received first place finishes from new sources enroute to the triumph.

Going against a first year team in North Rockland, Coach Gabriele decided to rest his big guns Mike O'Hara and Fred Robinson except for the opening and closing relays. Their appearance in those events produced a school record in one and a win in the other to mark the first time KHS has taken both races in a meet this season.

The team of O'Hara, Dave Brinnier, John Edwards, and Robinson covered the North Rockland pool in 1:55.2 in the 200 yard medley relay knocking the previous team mark of 1:57.0 set in 1968 off the books. Meanwhile, Kingston was getting double wins from junior splashes Jim Gogg and Dennis Roth. The former grabbed the 200 yard individual medley and the 400 yard freestyle while his close friend and teammate was chalking up the 100 and 200 yard freestyles.

Brandon Jones was a Maroon winner in the speedy time of 27.1 in the 50 yard freestyle. Tom Lonergan was tops in diving; and Edwards led the field in the 100 yard breaststroke. Kingston's other first place finish went to Mary Ann Nac-carato in the 100 yard butterfly.

Her time of 1:23 enabled the Maroon female to be an individual winner for the first time.

The Maroons face Fallsburg away on Thursday and a win in that encounter would sew up the DUSO race.

The summaries:

Kingston 67 — North Rockland 28	200 yd. med. relay — Kingston (O'Hara, Brinnier, Edwards, Robinson), 1:55.2. (New school record)

Finale to Red Hook

RED HOOK
The long-standing rivalry between Red Hook and Pine Plains High Schools came to a close on the Raiders' home court Tuesday night with the host hoophsters topping the Bombers, 46-39. It was the final Bi-Valley League confrontation between these two schools as Red Hook will be leaving the Dutchess County Scholastic League and will play in the Ulster County Athletic League next season.

The two schools may face each other in independent play, however.

The Raiders evened their league mark at 6-6 are now 6-10 overall. They will play host to Haldane in their Bi-Valley League finale Friday night.

Red Hook started the game in a tight, man-to-man defense while Pine Plains stayed in a three-two zone. Red Hook had many opportunities from the free throw line and Greg Fister kept the Bombers honest with some hot, outside shooting.

The winners had a halftime lead of 19-17.

Red Hook was 18 of 32 from the foul line and 14 of 44 from the field. Pine Plains had a hot 11 of 14 from the charity stripe, but managed just 14 of 48 from the field.

Greg Fister hit 14 for the winners and Tom Mabie added 10. Mark Francis had 15 for the losers.

"This has been a great rivalry," said winning coach Al Mallanda after the tilt. "I'm glad we could end it with a win. The boys were really up for this one and played well," he concluded.

Marlboro Routs Bush

PINE BUSH

Its chance for an Ulster County Athletic League crown down the drain, Marlboro High School racked up the biggest point total of the season here last night as the Dukes walloped Pine Bush, 93-55.

Marlboro is now 6-4 in UCAL play while Pine Bush is 1-10.

The hometown Bushmen were never in the contest as Marlboro went out to a 17-6 first quarter lead which stretched to 37-21 at the half. Pine Bush played Marlboro even in the third quarter before the Dukes outscored the losers 32-12 in the final period.

Rich Gerentine moved into second place in the league scoring race by knocking home 27 points for Marlboro. Joe Edmunds led Pine Bush with 24.

Pine Bush hosts Onteora while New Paltz visits Marlboro in Friday's games.

Palmer Jumps to 3rd In PGA Money Ranks

NEW YORK (UPI)—With the Hope, increased his 1971 his first victory in over 14 months coming in the Bob Hope Desert Classic, Arnold Palmer jumped from sixth place to third in golf's weekly money-winning standings, it was announced Tuesday by the Professional Golf Association's Tournament Players Division.

Palmer, by winning $28,000 in the Hope, increased his 1971 tournament winnings to $56,126, placing him behind Tom Shaw, who has earned $72,933, and second-place Miller Barber, with $60,090.

Barber continues as the exemption points leader, with 55,541.5, since points were not awarded in the Hope Classic because the competition involved amateurs. Exemption point standings are used to help determine playing privileges for next year's tour.

Willie Mays Rests

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Willie Mays returned home Thursday after three days in a hospital for treatment of a cyst on his right arm.

Mays said the cyst is clearing up and now he wants to rest. He said his winter activity on the banquet and golf tournament circuit has left him tired "and with a sore arm."

But Mays said he plans to join his San Francisco Giants teammates for spring training at Casa Grande, Ariz. on Feb. 22.

The 39-year-old Giants center-fielder dropped out of the Hope Golf Classic at Palm Springs but he said he expects to enter the Phoenix Open next Tuesday.

NEVER NEEDS PAINTING
NEVER NEEDS MAINTENANCE

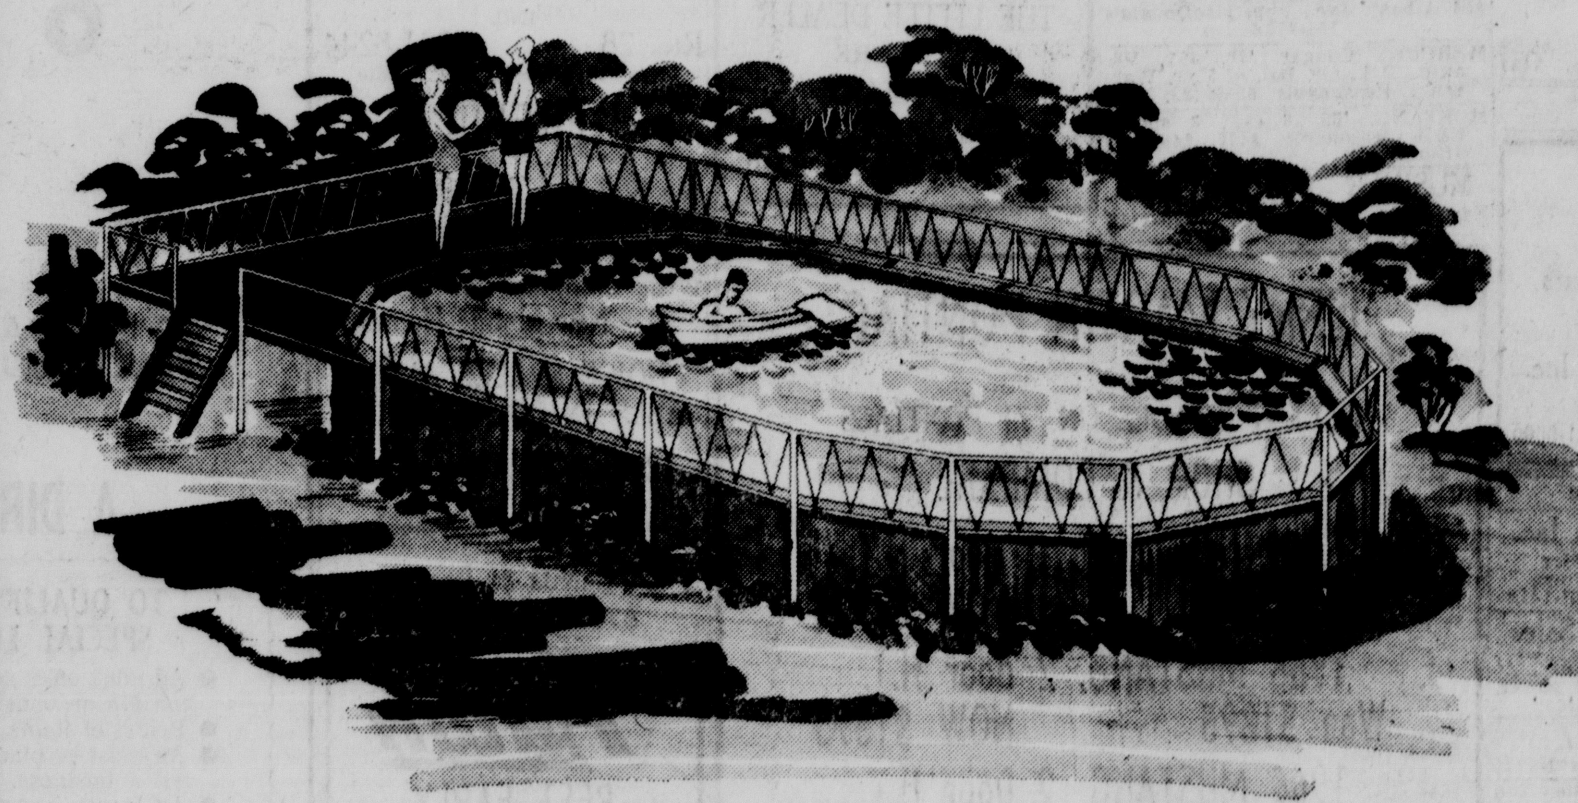

For the family who wants a weather-resistant pool and wants it installed immediately, this above-ground aluminum pool is long-lasting. Its bridge-type construction of Reynolds Aluminum means it's built to give years of user satisfaction. The base plates of the pool are joined by sturdy, aluminum tension bars. Its aluminum wall system prevents warping, bowing or bursting. And, because of aluminum's high strength, water can be left in year 'round to provide winter-time ice-skating fun.

Blaiberg Widow Gets License To Wed Again

HAIFA, Israel (UPI).—Mrs. Eileen Blaiberg, widow of the world's third heart transplant recipient, received a license to remarry today from a rabbinical court that wished her luck in staying out of the headlines.

"We gave her the marriage license with a blessing — may you have a good and healthy heart and keep out of the headlines," said Rabbi Yaakov Rosenthal, head of the court.

Mrs. Blaiberg, widow of Capetown, South Africa dentist Dr. Philip Blaiberg, has been shunning newsmen ever since her plans to wed a 61-year-old Israeli widower and settle in Israel became known two weeks ago.

The publicity increased when the Haifa rabbi refused her a marriage license last Thursday until she produced a death certificate to prove she was a widow.

"Unfortunately, I am the most famous widow in the world. I have a heap of newspaper clippings to prove it," Mrs. Blaiberg told the court then.

Her late husband, who died Aug. 17, 1969, lived 563 days with a transplanted heart—then a record.

Mrs. Blaiberg had protested sending to South Africa for the death certificate would delay her wedding to Herbert Blum, an Israeli civil servant. She offered to produce witnesses to attest her widowhood instead.

But the rabbis were adamant. In Israel Jews may be wed only by a rabbi. Today Mrs. Blaiberg produced the death certificate.

Dear Abby

Son Wants to Help Dad

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: What does a teen-aged son do when he knows his father is having a back-street affair with his secretary? I've planned to say so many things, but always end up in a cold sweat and say nothing.

My mom is a fine looking woman. She is pretty, dresses well and can hold her own on any subject, so why did dad turn to a cheap nobody? He sneaks around like a common thief to meet this woman at a motel on Wednesday afternoons (his day off).

Dad used to be such a great guy. Now I can hardly look at him without feeling sick to my stomach. I just have to do something, Abby, but it scares me. I can't go to our rabbi with this rotten mess because he is a friend of the family. My father is a professional man and everybody in town thinks well of him. Please help me. I don't want mom hurt.

BROKEN-HEARTED SON
DEAR SON: Tell your father what you suspect, but don't be surprised if he denies it. And don't be disenchanted either. He may have "problems" you know nothing about. Be patient. At least your father will be alerted to the hazards in his conduct — for your mom's sake if not his.

DEAR ABBY: My inlaws are the world's greatest. Often they take a widow friend along when they go out to dine. This little lady is on a rather tight budget, and after eating, she unobtrusively slips the remainder of her meat into a little plastic bag which she carries in her purse for that purpose.

I can tell this embarrasses my inlaws, altho they have never said anything about it.

With the price of meat nowadays it's a shame to waste it, but don't you think someone should tell the little lady to ask the waiter for a doggie bag?

DAUGHTER IN LAW

DEAR DAUGHTER: You're doggone right. Somebody should ask the waiter for a doggie bag, and it doesn't matter who asks. Most fine restaurants not only provide them, they offer them.

DEAR ABBY: Let me tell you about the divorce in our family. When our son divorced his wife, we continued to love our daughter in law and their four children as we always had.

Our former daughter in law maintains close and loving relations with us because she loves us, too. How can love suddenly stop because there is a divorce?

Now she is remarried and so is our son, and we love the "new" spouses, and they love us.

It takes a lot of patience and understanding when divorce comes, but love remains for those concerned, if there was love there to begin with. Why can't others see it this way?

THE THOMASES
DEAR THOMASES: Because when divorce comes, there is usually a lot of ugly talk on both sides.

DEAR ABBY: Contrary to what others may feel, I, for one, am not outraged when I see a young mother give her child a good sound whack if he misbehaves in the supermarket or anywhere else in public. If the child sets up a bloodcurdling howl, I don't even mind the noise. I secretly applaud that mother. Children who are not disciplined when young grow up to be tomorrow's criminals.

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

You have a whole new set of ideas under which you can operate now. Also the chance to combine your intuition and prophetic insight with your mature and best judgment, giving you the chance to forge ahead to new inspired goals and with less drawbacks than generally. Speak your ideas frankly.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Making new contacts in the business and creative world can lead to excellent results. Communicating with out-of-towners can bring fine results also, and gain benefits and their goodwill.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You can make the right decisions where financial affairs are concerned, so get everything done in a most clever way. You are now highly magnetic and can make a fine impression on the one you like so much. Don't talk too much.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Ideal time to see where you really stand where those plans for the future are concerned. Work on those good ideas to work and put over fine deals.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You deliberate too much. Get busy on that work and it is soon behind you. You came to the right decisions long ago. Act on them quickly. Co-workers will cooperate more with you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Use every moment of today wisely and you can have a particularly fruitful and happy day. Make your appointments early. Showing thoughtfulness to mate pays off handsomely.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Getting the approval of those who dwell with you about an important matter is wise. Then there will be no arguments later. Make home repairs and improvements that will please all. Count the cost well.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Show those with whom you are working on a joint project that you appreciate working along with them. Then everything goes along more smoothly. You can be highly efficient now. A handsome profit could be in the offing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into the monetary side of your routines and add to present security appreciably. Study new plans that could be successful. Listen to what an expert has to suggest but use your own good judgment as well.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Doing and saying those things today that will improve and insure future relationships with persons you admire is wise. You have some aims of a subjective nature that can be reached now. Save time for reading tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Pull yourself away from persons who want to take up your time and get busy with important matters. You have to get advice from experts if you want to be of real assistance to others. Take it easy tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A good day to display those gregarious qualities you possess as to who is most worth cultivating in the days ahead. Show wisdom.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) This is the right time to see a higher-up whose bluntness you usually dislike, but which can be most helpful to you today. Plan to get into some civic affair that really appeals to you. Show ability.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who speaks bluntly but honestly and has the ability to comprehend modern ideas and trends far more than others, be it in the social or business realm. Give as fine an education as you can to bring out the qualities of leadership that are so pronounced. Some connection with the government would be very fine as well as big business, philanthropic work and the like.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for March is now ready. For a copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast, The Daily Freeman, Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

MAD DANCE:: (Q.) Last Saturday I went to a dance with a boy and had the worst time of my life! I feel horrible about it because I asked him. It was a girl ask-boy dance.

When I asked him the first time he said he didn't know if he would go or not. I asked him again on the last day to get the ticket. He said he probably would. A day before the dance he said he couldn't go because he'd found out the dance was semi-formal and he didn't have a suit, only pants and a sports jacket.

A friend of mine said call him and tell him the sports jacket would be all right. So I did. And he did go with me. But when we got there he wanted to fast dance and I couldn't. I asked him to teach me. He tried, but I made a mess of it. The whole three hours we sat bored to death.

He is in my English class and he'll probably tell everybody I'm a dud to go to a dance with. That will kill me. Please help!—In Trouble in Troy, N.Y.

(A.) About the only way I can help you is to urge you to be prepared next time, and to be more ladylike. You practically hog-tied him to get him to go, and then when you got there you didn't know the ropes. That wasn't being ladylike, and it wasn't being prepared.

Watch the popular girls around you. Learn to deal with boys the way they do.

SKIRT LENGTHS: (Q.) I make most of my own clothes. I can take just a piece of material and a little imagination and make a beautiful mini skirt. I want a maxi, though, and don't know how long to make it. Do you?—Peace in New Bedford, Mass.

(A.) Any length from the ankle on down. But if you make it TOO long it will drag the floor and pick up dirt. A mid-skirt should stop about mid-calf.

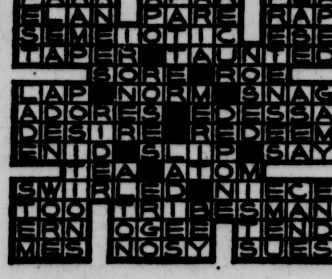

Another old-but-new sensation is knickers. All three styles go well with boots.

A Conservationist's Dream

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Everglades," NBC's treatment of that imperiled aquatic world was a nature-lover's and conservationist's dream program Tuesday night.

Much of the program was a leisurely and beautifully filmed inspection of the flora and fauna of the great natural park, from the tiny mosquito larvae to the big blue heron and alligator. It was a vivid way to demonstrate the importance of protecting all the links in the vital food chain by which the creatures survive and multiply.

Hugh Downs' quiet narration insistently pointed to the fragility of the system of survival—how the land must alternately be flooded and dried out and how dependant survival now is on man.

Much of the same material was covered and the same points made in Arthur Godfrey's recent program about the Everglades on ABC. Both emphasized the danger of pollution, from raw sewage, factory wastes, agricultural spraying, construction of homes, roads and jet ports.

As in other documentaries based on ecology, the program made a point of "death without destruction," this time showing a cottonmouth snake, hunting for food, striking at a squirrel and a hungry alligator snapping up a young raccoon which lost its grip on a branch—unpleasant viewing but essential in presenting a realistic picture of that all-important food chain.

"Maybe I'll Come Home in the Spring," ABC's "Movie of the Week" was a devastating indictment, visually interesting and perhaps was helpful in understanding the unbridgeable gap between youth and age. It was the story of a girl, running away from an unsympathetic family, who becomes involved in the hippie world of drugs and irresponsibility. Returning home after a bad experience, she finds her parent's middle-class world still unbearable—and a younger sister on drugs.

There was a particularly lethal portrayal of a boozing adult party, balanced by some grisly scenes of drug-distorted frolics among the hippies.

Fine performances were turned in by Sally Field as the disturbed, searching girl, and Lane Bradbury as her unhappy sister, Jackie Cooper and Eleanor Parker were excellent as the excitable, self-centered parents.

It was a story told from one point of view—the girl's. Even if one disagreed with its bias, it made its point and carried a strong punch.

CBS began a two-part series documenting the changing character of the war in Indochina—the shift to Laos and Cambodia at a time when the United States is winding down its involvement in South Vietnam.

Charles Collingwood presided over what was essentially a briefing on the situation. There were interviews with advocates and critics of administration policy. There were maps, aerial film and plenty of film showing the fighting. It was, generally, a calm and fact-filled summary containing little that was new.

Part two will pre-empt Jackie Gleason's "Honeymooners" pre-emptible, self-centered parents, program next Sunday night.

Nixon Considering Wage Control Freeze

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Free prices and wages are the heart of our economic system. We should not stop them from working even to cure an inflationary fever."

Thus, in his annual economic report to Congress, President Nixon expressed his strongest rejection to date of wage and price controls as a way to combat inflation.

Now, a little more than two weeks later, Nixon is reported to be seriously considering clamping a wage and price freeze on the construction industry.

Even a temporary freeze would represent a dramatic turnaround in Nixon's thinking. When Congress granted him the power to impose temporary wage and price controls last year, Nixon said it was power he didn't want and wouldn't use.

The law permits the President to set temporary maximums on wages, prices and rents at any levels not below those of May 25, 1970.

Nixon held out the possibility of government intervention in that economic message, and in a December speech before the National Association of Manufacturers in New York.

Still, those statements gave no hint Nixon was considering such a drastic step as a wage and price freeze, an action usually confined to times of war or runaway inflation.

A step most frequently mentioned in the industry as easing the situation is repeal or suspension of the Davis-Bacon law which establishes union rates on federal construction projects.

It is also a move that Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, suggested in December.

But the President said Jan. 18 he was not prepared to take such actions as putting price ceilings on federal construction projects or seeking suspension of the Davis-Bacon act.

Not until the present has there been any suggestion the President was considering using the power that Congress granted him to impose a wage and price freeze generally and on selected industries.

But one backer of that legislation, Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., said last week: "The President has said before there were some things he would never, never to — and now he is doing them."

Meanwhile, the nation's economy inched ahead sluggishly last month, still not responding to Nixon's ambitious expansion policies, a new government report shows.

Industrial production, one of the first significant economic indicators reported this year, advanced by seven-tenths of 1 percent in January, the Federal Reserve Board said Tuesday.

At any other time, the gain might have been significant. But, the board said, factory output is still catching up from the knockout blow of last fall's General Motors' strike.

Excluding the unseasonably high 18 percent increase in auto production, output of the nation's factories showed continuing slack, with declines in production of television sets and other appliances, industrial, commercial and defense equipment and commercial aircraft.

A spokesman for Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers said the production index for January "is a good figure. It doesn't set the world on fire, but it's a good steady figure."

He said the most encouraging signs are the auto production snapback and a stepup in steel output, reflecting industry stockpiling in anticipation of a strike later this year.

"Hopefully, these will spread into other areas," he said.

The administration is looking for a dramatic jump in output in March and April to realize its prediction of an upturn in the economy.

After pursuing tight fiscal and monetary policies in fighting inflation last year, Nixon has ordered heavier federal spending, combined with easier money policies from the Federal Reserve, to expand the economy this year.

His primary goal now is to tackle unemployment, currently at 6 percent. Nixon has predicted a 9 percent leap in economic activity this year as measured by the Gross National Product.

The expansionary fiscal policy calls for back-to-back deficits totaling more than $30 billion this fiscal year and next. The administration is asking Congress to approve a near-record increase of about $40 billion in the national debt limit to make the heavier spending possible.

The January industrial production index indicated the administration has a long way to go before reaching the super-fast pace Nixon has laid out for 1971.

The index climbed to 165.1 percent of the 1957-59 average, 2 percent below the level prior to the auto strike and still 5.4 percent under the peak reached in July 1969, when the economy was in high gear.

Warning to Americans: Stay Out of Jails Abroad

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says 1,100 Americans are in jail abroad, more than 700 of them on drug charges, and there is little that can be done for them.

When a U.S. citizen is picked up by police in a foreign country, the consul visits him in jail, helps him obtain a lawyer and communicate with his family, may attend the trial and tries to insure fair treatment, said Barbara M. Watson, administrator of the Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs.

"This does not mean fair treatment by American due-process standards, but rather by a somewhat vague standard of accepted international practice," she told the International Aviation Club Tuesday.

U.S. Families in Turkey: Strict Security Measures

ANKARA (UPI) — U.S. authorities today imposed strict security measures on 14,000 U.S. servicemen and their families in Turkey in an effort to head off further anti-American violence.

The action followed Monday's incident in which an air force enlisted man, was abducted at the airport, held for almost 17 hours and then released. Officials said it was the first kidnapping of an American in Turkey.

Jurors in Tate Trial Finally Going Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shareholders in the Tate murder trial jurors sequestration which began July 14, have reached the long-awaited day when they return home to the families they left behind seven months ago.

The judge told the jurors Tuesday they could move today from the hotel where they have been sequestered to guard them from possible prejudicial trial publicity. They will return to court daily for the trial's penalty phase, now in progress.

The unexpected order apparently was prompted by complaints by jurors and their families reportedly unhappy when one of their number was released for personal reasons. The others felt their reasons were just as valid.

The judge finally reinstated that juror and excused an alternate who had just joined the jury.

Before the lockup ended, several juror's spouses had told a reporter they were suffering fluenced purchase of whisky, beer, cigarettes and other goods, investigators contend.

The allegations are being investigated in hearings opening today before the Senate's permanent investigations subcommittee, headed by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

As senators prepared to open the hearings, the Air Force announced it will court-martial two majors and 12 sergeants on charges they mishandled funds belonging to Air Force clubs in Thailand.

Over the weekend, the Army announced it was removing more than 1,700 slot machines from its clubs in Vietnam on the grounds their presence was not practical in a war zone.

Sen. Edward J. Gurney, R-Fla., a subcommittee member, said the hearings will include testimony that efforts were made in Vietnam to artificially influence demand statistics for certain beers and liquors being offered for sale to the PX system.

He said slot machines appear to be the root of corruption in all the subcommittee's investigations of funds generated solely by soldiers' spending.

The hearings are a sequel to others in which the subcommittee traced black-market currency transactions through a large New York City bank to banks in the sheikdom of Dubai, a reputed gold-smuggling center in the Middle East.

Earlier hearings saw several senior Army sergeants invoke the 5th Amendment to avoid answering senators' questions about their activities.

The questions then concerned alleged thefts from slot machines, acceptance of kickbacks from businessmen dealing with service clubs in Germany and South Vietnam and the sergeants' creation of a sales firm, allegedly to sell products to clubs they ran.

The Kingston Chapter of Parents Without Partners will hold its anniversary dinner Saturday night at the Court Restaurant on Wall Street.

The smorgasbord dinner is open to the public and reservations or further information may be obtained from any member of the organization.

Recent Explorers on the Moon Give Some Advice to Apollo 15 Crew

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Apollo 14's moon explorers have warned the next Apollo crew to be wary of the barren, hilly landscape can play on their ability to navigate between lunar landmarks.

That was one of the key points Alan B. Shepard, Edgar D. Mitchell and Stuart A. Roosa made Tuesday in a day-long briefing for Apollo 15 astronauts David R. Scott, Alfred M. Worden and James B. Irwin. Apollo 15 is set for launch to the moon July 25.

Today the Apollo 14 astronauts planned to tell project officials about their pathfinding, nine-day mission to the hilly lunar uplands.

The problem of finding specific places of interest when walking the moon became even more apparent Tuesday when two scientists reported that Shepard and Mitchell were so fooled by the terrain they turned back within 160 feet of a crater that was their key objective. They thought it was farther away.

"The irony is that if they had gone on, possibly no more than 25 to 50 meters (80 to 160 feet), they would have been right on the rim," said Dr. Robin P. Brett, vice chairman of the team making a preliminary analysis of Apollo 14's rock samples.

Brett and Dr. Everett Gibson reached that conclusion after discussing the lunar hike with Mitchell and examining photographs he and Shepard took on their hike up a 400-foot ridge capped by a deep hole called Cone Crater.

"As they said, it would be nice to have a tree or something around so you could get an idea of scale," Brett said. "But with this very barren, hilly, hilly ground, and with these boulders lying around, it was very hard to tell how far distances actually were."

John E. Riley, space agency spokesman living in quarantine with the astronauts, sat in on their discussion with the Apollo

Simulation

Apollo 15 astronauts (L-R) James B. Irwin, lunar module pilot; Commander David R. Scott and command module pilot Alfred M. Worden display the lunar roving vehicle which will be used on the moon's surface to transport the astronauts for samples. The simulation was held at the Manned Space Center in Houston, Tex. The vehicle weighs 480-pounds and is powered by batteries. Meanwhile, the Apollo 14 astronauts are still living in quarantine and are expected to rejoin their families at the expiration of the quarantine period, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 27.
